OUTLINE HISTORY OF NEW JERSEY.

Within the limits of what is now the State of New Jersey, aside from any evidences of the presence of prehistoric man in the "Trenton Gravels," the original inhabitants of the commonwealth were Lenni Lenape, or Delaware, Indians. This subdivision of the great Algonkin family occupied the river valleys of the State, had made some progress in agriculture and in elementary arts, were peaceable but small in numbers, and at last have become totally extinct in this portion of the United States.

In its settlement, New Jersey was not an English colony. The claims of the Crown, based upon early discovery and various grants, were totally ignored by two great commercial nations of Europe—Holland and Sweden. It was not until 1664, practically a half century after the first occupancy of New Jersey by a white man, that England had aught more than a slight influence upon the destinies of the State. In settlement, Holland was first to send out planters, under the auspices of the Dutch West India Company. Claiming both the valleys of the Hudson and the Delaware, by virtue of the explorations of Hudson and Mey, land was taken up upon the banks of the Hudson, Passaic, Hackensack, Raritan and smaller streams tributary to New York harbor, as well as at Gloucester upon the Delaware. By 1630 these claims were well established by occupancy, and by the creation of a centre of local government in what is now New York city. Upon the rapidly growing influence of Holland, Sweden looked with jealous eye. Gustavus Adolphus, in his plan to make Sweden a world-power, saw the Dutch to be dangerous rivals in America. In 1638 there was equipped a Swedish expedition to settle the valley of the Delaware. What is now the State of Delaware, the valley of the Schuylkill and isolated portions of the west bank of the Delaware River were occupied, civil and military government was established, and the colony of farmers and traders entered upon a brief career of prosperity. The death of Gustavus Adolphus, internal dissensions in Sweden, the inherent weakness of the Delaware settlements, and the constantly increasing power of Holland brought matters to a crisis. In 1655 New Sweden was conquered by New Netherlands, and for nine years the soil of New Jersey was absolutely under Dutch control.

Emerging from the interregnum of the Cromwells, the restoration of the House of Stuart brought peace to England. On the 12th of March, 1664, Charles II., with royal disregard for previous patents, grants and charters, deeded to his brother James, Duke of York, a vast tract embracing much of New England, New York and all of what is now New Jersey. This was accompanied by active preparations to drive the Dutch from America, as they, in alien claims to New Jersey, practically separated the New England colonies from Virginia, Maryland and the Carolinas. In the summer of 1664 armed vessels appeared in New York harbor. After negotiations, the Dutch surrendered and the power of Holland in North America became simply a matter of history. In the meantime James, Duke of York, transferred to two favorites of the House of Stuart—John, Lord Berkeley, and Sir George Carteret—practically what is now the State of New Jersey. In honor of Carteret's defense of the Island of Jersey (Caesarea) during the Parliamentary wars, the territory was called New Jersey (Nova Caesarea).

Carteret and Berkeley, in granting a liberal frame of government and extolling the advantages of their colony so well located for agriculture, commerce, fishing and mining, attracted settlers not only from England, but from Scotland and New England, particularly Long Island and Connecticut. These planters were largely Calvinists, from Presbyterian and Congregational communities, and mainly occupied land in Newark, Elizabeth and upon the north shore of Monmouth county. The valley of the Delaware remained unsettled. The Calvinists brought into East Jersey distinctive views upon religious and civil matters. Early legislatures punished many crimes by death, the penalties being similar to those of the Jewish dispensation, while the "town-meeting" strengthened the individual action of the small communities. There was an intense individualism in every phase of political and religious development, the life of the people centering around the church and the school house, the head of both, as in New England, being the minister.

In 1676 a division of the interests of Carteret and Berkeley occurred. In the meantime Berkeley had disposed of his rights to a company of English Quakers, a conflict had ensued, and to establish the claims of all parties concerned, the two colonies of East and West Jersey came into existence. A line was drawn from a point in Little Egg

The State Capitol of New Jersey

Harbor to the Delaware Water Gap, Berkeley and his assigns retaining West Jersey as their moiety, Carteret obtaining East Jersey.

By Berkeley's transfer the dominant influence in West Jersey was that of the Society of Friends. Salem was settled in 1675, Burlington, Gloucester and the site of Trenton about five years later, while within ten years thereafter the "shore" communities of Cape May and Tucker-ton came into existence. The Society of Friends established in West Jersey a series of communities in which the life of the people was different from that of East Jersey. As East Jersey resembled New England in civil government, so West Jersey resembled Virginia. The political and social centres of the large plantations were the shire-towns, slave owning was common, a landed aristocracy was established, prominent families intermarried, and under the advice of William Penn and his friends good faith was kept with the Indians. Capital punishment was practically unknown and disputes were settled frequently by arbitration.

Two elements of discord marked the genesis of East Jersey and of West Jersey. One, external, was the attitude of the Duke of York after he became James II. In 1673 New Jersey was recaptured by the Dutch, who held the colony until the early spring of 1674. A question arose as to the Duke of York's title after 1674, reconveyances were made, but in spite of past assurances, James II. claimed the proprietary right of government. To that end Sir Edmund Andros was commissioned Governor of New Jersey, and a climax was reached in 1680 when the proprietary governor of East Jersey was carried prisoner to New York. In 1681 the Crown recognized the justice of the proprietors' contention, and local government was re-established, but not before the seeds of discontent were sown that bore fruit in the Revolutionary War.

An internal disturbance was a contest between the Boards of Proprietors and the small land owners. Both in East and West Jersey, Carteret and Berkeley and their assigns had transferred to wealthy combinations of capitalists—most of whom were non-residents—much of the broad acreage of the colonies. With the land went the right of selection of Governors and of members of Executive Councils, which right Berkeley and Carteret had derived from the Crown. This, with "quit-rent" agitations in East Jersey, led to much bitterness. Finally, disgusted with turmoil, and viewing a sentiment of revolt on the part of the people, the Boards of Proprietors surrendered to the Crown, in 1702, their rights of government, retaining only their interest in the soil, East and West Jersey were united, and the two provinces became the royal colony of New Jersey.

From 1702 until the outbreak of the Revolution the political history of the colony was quite uneventful. Throughout the period of seventy-five years there was almost constant friction between the Legislature and the Governor and his Council. The governors, in the main, were Crown favorites sent over the sea without a personal knowledge of the colony and with but an ill-concealed ambition to wrest from the people as much money as could be secured for the support of themselves and the executive office. The Councils, composed of wealthy land owners of the Society of Friends and rich merchants from East Jersey, were quiescent, and even the members of the popular branch of the Legislature were chosen by those possessing property qualifications. The small non-voting farmers raised the cry of "aristocracy," and the equivalent of "taxation without representation," and while loyal to the Crown were open in their expressions of dissatisfaction to the personal attitude of their governors. In 1733 New Jersey, in recognition of this sentiment, was given a governor separate from the one appointed jointly for the colonies of New York and New Jersey.

During this period the farm was the centre of the activities of the life of the people; particularly was this true in the western part of the colony, where favoring climate and soil, slave labor and the proximity of Philadelphia led to abundant crops and a good market. In East Jersey a commercial spirit was more active. Perth Amboy threatened to rival New York, and Jersey ships from Newark, Elizabeth and the Monmouth villages were to be found from Boston to Charleston. The repressive economic policy of the Crown precluded the development of manufactures. In the southern part of the State, sand and unlimited forests of oak and pine led to the development of glass making, while "bog iron," with abundance of lime from oyster shells, gave an impetus to the erection of forges and bloomeries. These, as well as the copper mines of the trap rock region, were throttled by adverse Parliamentary legislation. Ship building was a recognized industry, and cedar was extensively "mined" from the sunken forests of the tide-water district. Whaling and other fisheries were unhampered, and were profitable, as was also the trade in skins and in hay from the salt meadows of the coast.

Throughout the years from 1702 to 1776 gold and silver and copper money was scarce. In obedience to the demand of the English merchants that competition should be crushed, legislation was enacted to draw "hard" money away from the colony. An inflated paper currency, first issued in 1707 to provide ways and means to aid the Canadian expedition against the French, poured from the printing presses. Trade was reduced to barter, and gold, silver and copper were practically at a premium for nearly three generations.

Of the more prominent incidents during the period were the organized attempts to suppress piracy in New York and Delaware bays, the growth of a well-defined system of transportation by land and water between New York and Philadelphia, the establishment of ferries and post roads, the reclamation of waste land, the injection of Huguenot, Scotch-Irish and Palatinate German elements into the settled population, the chartering of Princeton University and Rutgers College, the religious revival led by Whitefield, the propagation of abolition doctrines by Woolman, the erection of a series of barracks owing to the French and Indian war, and what is probably of supreme importance, the growth of a sentiment of independence fostered by the stupid policy of the Crown, and carried from hamlet to hamlet, as much by itinerant hawkers and by "Redemptioners," who had served their time, as by any other cause.

The opening of the Revolution found New Jersey's sentiment unevenly crystalized. Few, if any, were favoring absolute independence. There were three elements. One, the Tory party, was led by Governor William Franklin, the illegitimate son of Benjamin Franklin. This conservative class embraced nearly all the Episcopalians, a vast proportion of the non-combatant members of the Society of Friends and some East Jersey Calvinists. Another element was composed of men of various shades of belief, some in favor of continual protest, others desirous of compromise. This included at the outbreak of the struggle most of the Calvinists, some few Quakers of the younger generation, and the Scotch-Irish. The third party drew its support from a few bold, aggressive spirits of influence whose following included men who believed that war for independence would benefit their fortunes.

The part played in the Revolution by New Jersey has been frequently told. Events passed rapidly after the affairs of Trenton and Princeton; Monmouth and Red Bank will never be forgotten, while the raids at Salem, Springfield, Elizabeth, in the valley of the Hackensack, and the winter at Morristown are a part of national history. Occupying a position between New York and Philadelphia, its soil was a theatre where the drama of war was always presented. At no time was the Tory element suppressed, finding its expression in open hostility, or in the barbaric cruelties of the "Pine Robbers" of Monmouth, Burlington, Gloucester and Salem counties. Though under suspicion, the Society of Friends were neutral, for conscience sake, remaining close to the teachings of their creed.

The close of the struggle found the people of New Jersey jubilant and not disposed to relinquish their sovereignty. The Articles of Confederation were weak and had become a by-word and a jest. There was much State pride and much aristocratic feeling among the old families who continued to dominate State politics. The Constitution of 1776, adopted by New Jersey as a makeshift war measure, provided that all State officers of prominence should be elected by a Legislature, which was chosen by voters possessing property qualifications. As in the colony, the Governor was Chancellor, and class distinctions were closely drawn. In spite of agitation, all proposed changes were rejected, and a strong federal union with the other States was viewed with dislike and suspicion. The State, in a quarrel with New York, at one time refused to obey the requests of Congress, and, in the exercise of her sovereignty, established a Court of Admiralty and coined money.

While the spirit of "State rights" was dominant, it was recognized by leaders of public thought that New Jersey was too weak to stand alone. She entered the Annapolis convention called to revise the Articles of Confederation, and whose lasting monument was the present Federal Constitution adopted in Philadelphia in 1787. Upon the 15th of June of that year the "New Jersey Plan" was presented, which, while lost as a measure, led to the famous compromise upon representation, whereby in the Senate of the United States the States were given equal vote, with a representation based on population in the House.

The adoption of the Constitution of the United States led to the rapid growth of political parties in New Jersey as elsewhere. In spite of the intense conservatism of the State, led by the Quakers of West Jersey, who were Federalists almost to a man, the anti-Federalist sentiment developed rapidly, spurred by a virulent party press, the death of men who had been trained in colonial methods of thought and the democratic tendency of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which grew in strength in West Jersey.

In the eastern part of the State there was among the individualistic Calvinists a strong anti-Federal spirit. This, in 1800, led to the election of Thomas Jefferson as President of the United States, and in 1801 the election of his political ally, Joseph Bloomfield, as Governor of the State of New Jersey. The death of Hamilton at the hands of Burr, and the death of Livingston, the "war" Governor, tore down the strongest pillars of Federalism in New Jersey, and led to the absolute domination of the State by the anti-Federalists, who held power until the outbreak of the second war with England.

The period from 1790 to 1812 in New Jersey was marked by a demand for internal improvements and better transportation. The agitation concerning the Delaware and Raritan Canal, Stevens' experiments in 1802 with steam, along the lines laid down in 1785 by Fitch, the project of the Society for Establishing Useful Manufactures at Paterson as early as 1791, and highways conducted through the northwest portion of the State, indicate the trend of public sentiment.

The second war with England was not altogether a popular measure in New Jersey. The Federalists, the "Peace Party," secured control of the Legislature and elected their Governor. Nevertheless the State furnished her quota of troops. The one permanent effect of the struggle upon the State was indirect. Owing to the movement of supplies and the necessity of quick transportation between Philadelphia and the exposed port of New York, the wagon roads between Bordentown and Perth Amboy, and between Trenton, New Brunswick, Metuchen, Rahway, Elizabeth and Newark, were improved and their advantages as "short routes" demonstrated. Upon these lines two later railroads, now a part of the Pennsylvania Railroad system, were constructed.

The era following the close of the war of 1812 until the opening of the Civil War was one of stupendous activity. Interrupted only by the financial depressions of 1817 and 1837, and slightly retarded by the Mexican War, the progress of the State was beyond the wildest dreams of the enthusiast, Alexander Hamilton. In the eastern part of the State, aided by a constantly increasing foreign population, Jersey City rose from the marshes, Newark grew toward her present greatness, Paterson became a centre of industry, while in the west, Camden was recognized as an available site for manufactures. The public school system was established and extended, reforms in the caring for the criminal, defective, delinquent and dependent classes were instituted, railroads were reaching every town of size, in the vicinity of New York and Philadelphia, ferries were erected, banks established, post offices opened and newspapers printed. In 1844, when social unrest was most marked, the present State Constitution was adopted by a large popular majority and needed reforms tending to elevate the legal position of married women, imprisoned debtors and bankrupts were adopted.

The year 1860 brought a termination to the then impending conflict. While every other State north of Mason and Dixon's line by 1850 had set the black man free, there were still 236 negroes in bondage in New Jersey. The abolition movement made slow progress and an anti-war party had a decided following. But when the die was cast New Jersey responded to the call for men and money. She furnished 88,305 men, or within 10,501 of her entire militia. For organizing, subsisting, supplying, supporting and transporting her troops she paid $2,894,385, and upon the field sustained the reputation for bravery she had won during the days of Trenton and Monmouth.

Since the Civil War New Jersey has become the centre of marvelous activity in nearly every line of human progress. Her mills clothe multitudes; within her borders are found the termini of every railroad system of the United States, with one exception, penetrating the South and West; her market gardens feed 5,000,000 people; a series of cities arisen upon the desolate sands of the sea shore furnish health and pleasure to hundreds of thousands of visitors; her mines supply iron, zinc and copper; her fisheries are world-famous, and her farms and dairies are models.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

OF THE

UNITED STATES.

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuits of happiness. That, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundations on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly, all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But, when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies, and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present king of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having, in direct object, the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world:

He has refused his assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operations till his assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the Legislature—a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable and distant from the repository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused, for a long time after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the State remaining, in the meantime, exposed to all the dangers of invasions from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose, obstructing the laws for the naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our Legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of, and superior to, the civil power.

He has combined, with others, to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitutions, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us;

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment, for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these States;

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world;

For imposing taxes on us without our consent;

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefit of trial by jury;

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses;

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies;

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering, fundamentally, the forms of our governments;

For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burned our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is, at this time, transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun, with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow-citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrection among us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions, we have petitioned for redress, in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in our attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts by their Legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them, by the ties of our common kindred, to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They, too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace, friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the World for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name and by the authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare, that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, Free and Independent States; that they are also absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that, as Free and Independent States, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and do all other acts and things which Independent States may of right do. And, for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other, our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.

The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each State shall have at least one representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three; Massachusetts, eight; Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, one; Connecticut, five; New York, six; New Jersey, four; Pennsylvania, eight; Delaware, one; Maryland, six; Virginia, ten; North Carolina, five; South Carolina, five; and Georgia, three.

OFFICERS—IMPEACHMENT.

5. The house of representatives shall choose their speaker and other officers, and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

SENATE—HOW COMPOSED.

Section III.

1. The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each State, chosen by the legislature thereof, for six years, and each senator shall have one vote.

ROTATION OF SENATORS.

2. Immediately after they shall be assembled, in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year; of the second class, at the expiration of the fourth year; and of the third class, at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year. And if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any State, the executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

THEIR QUALIFICATIONS.

3. No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen.

THE SENATE'S POWERS.

6. The senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the chief justice shall preside. And no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

7. Judgment, in cases of impeachment, shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall, nevertheless, be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment according to law.

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS—HOW ELECTED.

Section IV.

1. The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives shall be prescribed in each State, by the legislature thereof; but the congress may, at any time, by law, make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators.

WHEN CONGRESS SHALL MEET.

2. Congress shall assemble at least once in every year; and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

POWERS AND DUTIES OF EACH HOUSE.

Section V.

1. Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members; and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

RULES, &C.

2. Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

JOURNALS.

3. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may, in their judgment, require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of each house, on any question, shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

ADJOURNMENT.

4. Neither house, during the session of congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

COMPENSATION, PRIVILEGES AND INCAPACITIES.

Section VI.

1. The senators and representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall, in all cases, except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

APPOINTMENT TO OFFICE.

2. No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased, during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States, shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

REVENUE BILLS.

Section VII.

1. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives; but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

PASSING BILLS, &C.

2. Every bill which shall have passed the house of representatives and the senate, shall, before it become a law, be presented to the President of the United States; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the congress, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

ORDERS AND RESOLUTIONS.

3. Every order, resolution or vote, to which the concurrence of the senate and house of representatives may be necessary (except on the question of adjournment), shall be presented to the President of the United States, and before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or, being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the senate and house of representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

POWERS OF CONGRESS.

Section VIII.

The congress shall have power:

1. To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defense, and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States.

2. To borrow money on the credit of United States;

ARTICLE II.

THE EXECUTIVE POWER.

Section I.

1. The executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the Vice-President, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows:

HOW ELECTED.

2. Each State shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the State may be entitled in congress; but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.

ELECTORAL COLLEGES.

3. The electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot, for two persons, of whom one, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit, sealed, to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate. The president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the house of representatives shall immediately choose by ballot, one of them for President; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list, the said house shall in like manner choose the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of the States shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the President, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors, shall be the Vice-President. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the senate shall choose from them, by ballot, the Vice-President. [See XIIth amendment.]

4. The congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes, which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

WHO MAY BE ELECTED PRESIDENT.

5. No person except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this constitution, shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States. [See XIIIth amendment.]

ON THE DEATH, REMOVAL, &C., OF THE PRESIDENT, THE POWERS AND DUTIES DEVOLVE UPON THE VICE-PRESIDENT.

6. In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice-President; and the congress may, by law, provide for the case of removal, death, resignation or inability, both of the President and Vice-President, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly, until the disability be removed, or a President shall be elected.

COMPENSATION OF THE PRESIDENT.

7. The President shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected; and he shall not receive, within that period,

But the congress may, by law, vest the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper in the President alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of department.

APPOINTING POWER.

3. The President shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate, by granting commissions, which shall expire at the end of their next session.

consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them; and in case of disagreement between them with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

2. In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a State shall be party, the supreme court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned, the supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the congress shall make.

TRIALS FOR CRIMES.

3. The trials of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury, and such trial shall be held in the State where the said crime shall have been committed; but when not committed within any State, the trial shall be at such place or places as the congress may by law have directed.

HOW NEW STATES ARE ADMITTED.

Section III.

1. New States may be admitted by the congress into this Union; but no new State shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other State, nor any State be formed by the junction of two or more States or parts of States, without the consent of the legislatures of the States concerned, as well as of the congress.

THE DISPOSITION OF TERRITORIES.

No law shall be passed to restrain or abridge the liberty of speech or of the press. In all prosecutions or indictments for libel, the truth may be given in evidence to the jury; and if it shall appear to the jury that the matter charged as libelous is true, and was published with good motives and for justifiable ends, the party shall be acquitted; and the jury shall have the right to determine the law and the fact.

6. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the papers and things to be seized.

15. Excessive bail shall not be required, excessive fines shall not be imposed, and cruel and unusual punishments shall not be inflicted.

2. The legislature may pass laws to deprive persons of the right of suffrage who shall be convicted of bribery.

ARTICLE III.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE POWERS OF GOVERNMENT.

1. The powers of the government shall be divided into three distinct departments—the legislative, executive and judicial; and no person or persons belonging to, or constituting one of these departments, shall exercise any of the powers properly belonging to either of the others, except as herein expressly provided.

ARTICLE IV.

LEGISLATIVE.

Section I.

1. The legislative power shall be vested in a senate and general assembly.

2. No person shall be a member of the senate who shall not have attained the age of thirty years, and have been a citizen and inhabitant of the State for four years, and of the county for which he shall be chosen one year, next before his election; and no person shall be a member of the general assembly who shall not have attained the age of twenty-one years, and have been a citizen and inhabitant of the State for two years, and of the county for which he shall be chosen one year next before his election; provided, that no person shall be eligible as a member of either house of the legislature, who shall not be entitled to the right of suffrage.

3. Members of the senate and general assembly shall be elected yearly and every year, on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November; and the two houses shall meet separately on the second Tuesday in January next after the said day of election, at which time of meeting the legislative year shall commence; but the time of holding such election may be altered by the legislature.

Section II.

2. As soon as the senate shall meet after the first election to be held in pursuance of this constitution, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the first year; of the second class at the expiration of the second year; and of the third class at the expiration of the third year, so that one class may be elected every year; and if vacancies happen, by resignation or otherwise, the persons elected to supply such vacancies shall be elected for the unexpired terms only.

Section III.

1. The general assembly shall be composed of members annually elected by the legal voters of the counties, respectively, who shall be apportioned among the said counties as nearly as may be according to the number of their inhabitants. The present apportionment shall continue until the next census of the United States shall have been taken, and an apportionment of members of the general assembly shall be made by the legislature at its first session after the next and every subsequent enumeration or census, and when made shall remain unaltered until another enumeration shall have been taken; provided, that each county shall at all times be entitled to one member; and the whole number of members shall never exceed sixty.

Section IV.

1. Each house shall direct writs of election for supplying vacancies, occasioned by death, resignation, or otherwise; but if vacancies occur during the recess of the legislature, the writs may be issued by the governor, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law.

2. Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties, as each house may provide.

3. Each house shall choose its own officers, determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, may expel a member.

4. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

5. Neither house, during the session of the legislature, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

6. All bills and joint resolutions shall be read three times in each house, before the final passage thereof; and no bill or joint resolution shall pass unless there be a majority of all the members of each body personally present and agreeing thereto; and the yeas and nays of the members voting on such final passage shall be entered on the journal.

7. Members of the senate and general assembly shall receive annually the sum of five hundred dollars during the time for which they shall have been elected and while they shall hold their office, and no other allowance or emolument, directly or indirectly, for any purpose whatever. The president of the senate and the speaker of the house of assembly shall, in virtue of their offices, receive an additional compensation, equal to one-third of their allowance as members.

8. Members of the senate and general assembly shall, in all cases except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the sitting of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate, in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

Section V.

1. No member of the senate or general assembly shall, during the time for which he was elected, be nominated or appointed by the governor, or by the legislature in joint meeting, to any civil office under the authority of this State which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased, during such time,

2. If any member of the senate or general assembly shall be elected to represent this State in the senate or house of representatives of the United States, and shall accept thereof, or shall accept of any office or appointment under the government of the United States, his seat in the legislature of this State shall thereby be vacated.

3. No justice of the supreme court, nor judge of any other court, sheriff, justice of the peace nor any person or persons possessed of any office of profit under the government of this State, shall be entitled to a seat either in the senate or in the general assembly; but, on being elected and taking his seat his office shall be considered vacant; and no person holding any office of profit under the government of the United States shall be entitled to a seat in either house.

Section VI.

1. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of assembly; but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

2. No money shall be drawn from the treasury but for appropriations made by law.

3. The credit of the State shall not be directly or indirectly loaned in any case.

4. The legislature shall not, in any manner, create any debt or debts, liability or liabilities, of the State which shall, singly or in the aggregate with any previous debts or liabilities, at any time exceed one hundred thousand dollars, except for purposes of war, or to repel invasion, or to suppress insurrection, unless the same shall be authorized by a law for some single object or work, to be distinctly specified therein; which law shall provide the ways and means, exclusive of loans, to pay the interest of such debt or liability as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt or liability within thirty-five years from the time of the contracting thereof, and shall be irrevocable until such debt or liability, and the interest thereon, are fully paid and discharged; and no such law shall take effect until it shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received the sanction of a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election; and all money to be raised by the authority of such law shall be applied only to the specific object stated therein, and to the payment of the debt thereby created. This section shall not be construed to refer to any money that has been, or may be, deposited with this State by the government of the United States.

Section VII.

1. No divorce shall be granted by the legislature.

2. No lottery shall be authorized by the legislature or otherwise in this State, and no ticket in any lottery shall be bought or sold within this State, nor shall pool-selling, book-making or gambling of any kind be authorized or allowed within this State, nor shall any gambling device, practice or game of chance now prohibited by law be legalized, or the remedy, penalty or punishment now provided therefor be in any way diminished.

3. The legislature shall not pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or depriving a party of any remedy for enforcing a contract which existed when the contract was made.

4. To avoid improper influences which may result from intermixing in one and the same act such things as have no proper relation to each other, every law shall embrace but one object, and that shall be expressed in the title. No law shall be revived or amended by reference to its title only; but the act revived, or the section or sections amended, shall be inserted at length. No general law shall embrace any provision of a private, special or local character. No act shall be passed which shall provide that any existing law, or any part thereof, shall be made or deemed a part of the act, or which shall enact that any existing law, or any part thereof, shall be applicable, except by inserting it in such act.

6. The fund for the support of free schools, and all money, stock and other property which may hereafter be appropriated for that purpose, or received into the treasury under the provision of any law heretofore passed to augment the said fund, shall be securely invested and remain a perpetual fund; and the income thereof, except so much as it may be judged expedient to apply to an increase of the capital, shall be annually appropriated to the support of public free schools, for the equal benefit of all the people of the State; and it shall not be competent for the legislature to borrow, appropriate or use the said fund, or any part thereof, for any other purpose, under any pretense whatever. The legislature shall provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the instruction of all the children in this State between the ages of five and eighteen years.

7. No private or special law shall be passed authorizing the sale of any lands belonging in whole or in part to a minor or minors, or other persons who may at the time be under any legal disability to act for themselves.

8. Individuals or private corporations shall not be authorized to take private property for public use, without just compensation first made to the owners.

9. No private, special or local bill shall be passed unless public notice of the intention to apply therefor, and of the general object thereof, shall have been previously given. The legislature, at the next session after the adoption hereof, and from time to time thereafter, shall prescribe the time and mode of giving such notice, the evidence thereof, and how such evidence shall be preserved.

10. The legislature may vest in the circuit courts, or courts of common pleas within the several counties of this State, chancery powers, so far as relates to the foreclosure of mortgages and sale of mortgaged premises.

11. The legislature shall not pass private, local or special laws in any of the following enumerated cases; that is to say:

Laying out, opening, altering and working roads or high-ways.

Vacating any road, town plot, street, alley or public grounds.

Regulating the internal affairs of towns and counties; appointing local offices or commissions to regulate municipal affairs.

1. Members of the legislature shall, before they enter on the duties of their respective offices, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation:

"I do solemnly swear [or affirm, as the case may be,] that I will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the State of New Jersey, and that I will faithfully discharge the duties of senator [or member of the general assembly, as the case may be,] according to the best of my ability."

And members-elect of the senate or general assembly are hereby empowered to administer to each other the said oath or affirmation.

2. Every officer of the legislature shall, before he enters upon his duties, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation: "I do solemnly promise and swear [or affirm] that I will faithfully, impartially and justly perform all the duties of the office of ———, to the best of my ability and understanding; that I will carefully preserve all records, papers, writings or property intrusted to me for safe-keeping by virtue of my office, and make such disposition of the same as may be required by law."

ARTICLE V.

EXECUTIVE.

1. The executive power shall be vested in a governor.

2. The governor shall be elected by the legal voters of this State. The person having the highest number of votes shall be the governor; but if two or more shall be equal and highest in votes, one of them shall be chosen governor by the vote of a majority of the members of both houses in joint meeting. Contested elections for the office of governor shall be determined in such manner as the legislature shall direct by law. When a governor is to be elected by the people, such election shall be held at the time when and at the places where the people shall respectively vote for members of the legislature.

3. The governor shall hold his office for three years, to commence on the third Tuesday of January next ensuing the election for governor by the people, and to end on the Monday preceding the third Tuesday of January, three years thereafter; and he shall be incapable of holding that office for three years next after his term of service shall have expired; and no appointment or nomination to office shall be made by the governor during the last week of his said term.

4. The governor shall be not less than thirty years of age, and shall have been for twenty years, at least, a citizen of the United States, and a resident of this State seven years next before his election, unless he shall have been absent during that time on the public business of the United States or of this State.

5. The governor shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation which shall be neither increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected.

6. He shall be the commander-in-chief of all the military and naval forces of the State; he shall have power to convene the legislature, or the senate alone, whenever in his opinion public necessity requires it; he shall communicate by message to the legislature at the opening of each session, and at such other times as he may deem necessary, the condition of the State, and recommend such measures as he may deem expedient; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and grant, under the great seal of the State, commissions to all such officers as shall be required to be commissioned.

7. Every bill which shall have passed both houses shall be presented to the governor; if he approve he shall sign it, but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it; if, after such reconsideration, a majority of the whole number of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved of by a majority of the whole number of that house, it shall become a law; but in neither house shall the vote be taken on the same day on which the bill shall be returned to it; and in all such cases, the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor, within five days (Sunday excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law. If any bill presented to the governor contain several items of appropriations of money, he may object to one or more of such items while approving of the other portions of the bill. In such case he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items to which he objects, and the appropriation so objected to shall not take effect. If the legislature be in session he shall transmit to the house in which the bill originated, a copy of such statement, and the items objected to shall be separately reconsidered. If, on reconsideration, one or more of such items be approved by a majority of the members elected to each house, the same shall be a part of the law, notwithstanding the objections of the governor. All the provisions of this section in relation to bills not approved by the governor shall apply to cases in which he shall withhold his approval from any item or items contained in a bill appropriating money.

8. No member of congress, or person holding an office under the United States, or this State, shall exercise the office of governor; and in case the governor, or person administering the government shall accept any office under the United States or this State, his office of governor shall thereupon be vacant. Nor shall he be elected by the legislature to any office under the government of this State or of the United States, during the term for which he shall have been elected governor.

9. The governor, or person administering the government, shall have power to suspend the collection of fines and forfeitures, and to grant reprieves, to extend until the expiration of a time not exceeding ninety days after conviction; but this power shall not extend to cases of impeachment.

10. The governor, or person administering the government, the chancellor, and the six judges of the court of errors and appeals, or a major part of them, of whom the governor, or person administering the government, shall be one, may remit fines and forfeitures, and grant pardons, after conviction, in all cases except impeachment.

11. The governor and all other civil officers under this State shall be liable to impeachment for misdemeanor in office during their continuance in office, and for two years thereafter.

12. In case of the death, resignation or removal from office of the governor, the powers, duties and emoluments of the office shall devolve upon the president of the senate, and in case of his death, resignation or removal, then upon the speaker of the house of assembly, for the time being, until another governor shall be elected and qualified; but in such case another governor shall be chosen at the next election for members of the legislature, unless such death, resignation or removal shall occur within thirty days immediately preceding such next election, in which case a governor shall be chosen at the second succeeding election for members of the legislature. When a vacancy happens, during the recess of the legislature, in any office which is to be filled by the governor and senate, or by the legislature in joint meeting, the governor shall fill such vacancy and the commission shall expire at the end of the next session of the legislature, unless a successor shall be sooner appointed; when a vacancy happens in the office of clerk or surrogate of any county, the governor shall fill such vacancy, and the commission shall expire when a successor is elected and qualified. No person who shall have been nominated to the senate by the governor for any office of trust or profit under the government of this State, and shall not have been confirmed before the recess of the legislature, shall be eligible for appointment to such office during the continuance of such recess.

13. In case of the impeachment of the governor, his absence from the State or inability to discharge the duties of his office, the powers, duties and emoluments of the office shall devolve upon the president of the senate; and in case of his death, resignation or removal, then upon the speaker of the house of assembly for the time being, until the governor, absent or impeached, shall return or be acquitted, or until the disqualification or inability shall cease, or until a new governor be elected and qualified.

14. In case of a vacancy in the office of governor from any other cause than those herein enumerated, or in case of the death of the governor-elect before he is qualified into office, the powers, duties and emoluments of the office shall devolve upon the president of the senate or speaker of the house of assembly, as above provided for, until a new governor be elected and qualified.

4. The secretary of state shall be the clerk of this court.

5. When an appeal from an order or decree shall be heard, the chancellor shall inform the court, in writing, of the reasons for his order or decree; but he shall not sit as a member, or have a voice in the hearing or final sentence.

The house of assembly shall have the sole power of impeaching, by a vote of a majority of all the members; and all impeachments shall be tried by the senate; the members, when sitting for that purpose, to be on oath or affirmation "truly and impartially to try and determine the charge in question according to evidence;" and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members of the senate.

2. Any judicial officer impeached shall be suspended from exercising his office until his acquittal.

One judge for each county shall be appointed every year, and no more, except to fill vacancies, which shall be for the unexpired term only.

2. The commissions for the first appointments of judges of said court shall bear date and take effect on the first day of April next; and all subsequent commissions for judges of said court shall bear date and take effect on the

14. When a memorial or bill is referred to a committee, praying or providing for an act of incorporation, or for any other act, notice of the application for which is required by law to be previously advertised, the committee shall not have leave to report such bill unless satisfactory evidence has been presented to the committee that the application for such act has had a bona fide advertisement according to law; and all committees reporting such bills referred to them shall certify to the Senate that such proof has been presented and is deemed satisfactory.

15. The titles of all bills and the parts of bills affected by amendments, together with the amendments, shall be entered on the Journal.

16. When leave is asked to bring in a bill, its title shall be read for the information of the Senate, and if objected to it shall be laid over for one day; and all public and private bills and joint resolutions shall, after the first reading, be printed for the use of the Senate, but no other paper or document shall be printed without special order.

17. All bills and special reports of committees shall be numbered by the Secretary as they are severally introduced, and a list made of the same, and such bills and reports shall be called up by the President for consideration, in the order in which they are reported and stand upon the calendar, unless otherwise ordered; and the Secretary shall read from the said list or calendar, and not from the files of bills or reports.

18. No bill shall be committed or amended until it shall have been ordered to a second reading, after which it may be referred to a committee.

19. All bills may be made the order of a particular day, and public bills when called for shall have the preference of private bills; and when two or more bills shall be called for by Senators, they shall be taken up according to their seniority, reckoning from the date of their introduction.

20. On the second and third readings of bills and joint resolutions, printed copies thereof shall be used.

21. When bills or joint resolutions are introduced, the Secretary of the Senate shall forthwith deliver the same to the Supervisor of Bills, who shall prepare them for printing, in conformity with the rules defining the duties of said officer.

22. Original bills and joint resolutions, after being printed, shall be delivered by the Supervisor of Bills to the Secretary.

23. Bills and joint resolutions originating in and passed by the Senate and amended by the House, when concurred in by the Senate, shall be delivered by the Secretary to the Supervisor of Bills for re-printing.

24. Bills and joint resolutions which have passed their second reading, together with all amendments thereto, shall be delivered by the Secretary to the Supervisor of Bills, who shall see that the same are in proper form for printing for third reading.

25. When the Supervisor of Bills receives from the printer the bill or joint resolution ordered to a third reading and the same shall be found correct, he shall affix his official stamp to each page of the copy to be used as the official copy and intended to be submitted to the Governor for his approval, and shall deliver the same to the Secretary.

26. Two copies of every bill and of every joint resolution ordered to a third reading shall be printed on good bond paper, to be approved by the Supervisor of Bills, one of which copies shall be retained in his office and the other of which shall be delivered to the Secretary to be used thereafter as the official copy of said bill or joint resolution.

27. The Supervisor of Bills shall have printed for the use of the members of the Legislature at least one hundred copies of every bill or joint resolution ordered to a third reading, which shall be known and designated as "Official Copy Re-print." The Supervisor of Bills shall deliver twenty-one copies of all bills and joint resolutions designated as "Official Copy Re-print" to the Secretary of the Senate, and sixty copies to the Clerk of the House, and he shall retain the remainder in his own custody for the use of State and Legislative officers.

28. Except as otherwise provided, the system and procedure which have heretofore prevailed shall be followed in the preparation of all bills and joint resolutions for their various readings as far as practicable.

29. The consent of the majority of the Senators present shall be sufficient to print or re-print any bill or joint resolution, but no bill or joint resolution shall pass unless there shall be a majority of all the Senators personally present and agreeing thereto, and the yeas and nays of Senators voting on the final passage of any bill or joint resolution shall be entered on the Journal and the like entry on any other question shall be made at the desire of any Senator.

30. Every bill and joint resolution shall receive three readings previous to its being passed; and the President shall give notice at each reading whether it be the first, second or third, which readings shall be on three different days.

31. The final question upon the second reading of every bill or joint resolution originating in the Senate shall be whether it shall be read a third time; and no amendment shall be received at the third reading unless by unanimous consent of the Senators present, but it shall be in order, before the final passage of any such bill or joint resolution, to move its recommitment, and should such recommitment take place and any amendment be reported by the committee, the said bill or resolution shall be again read a second time and considered and the aforeſaid question again put.

32. When a bill or joint resolution shall have been lost, and reconsidered and lost again, the same shall not again be reconsidered but by the unanimous consent of the Senate.

33. Bills and joint resolutions, when passed by the Senate, shall be signed by the President.

34. When a Senate bill or joint resolution shall have been passed, the same shall be signed, taken to the House of Assembly, and its concurrence therein requested, without a motion for that purpose.

35. When a bill or resolution passed by the Senate shall be carried to the House of Assembly, all papers and documents relating thereto on the files of the Senate shall be carried by the Secretary, with such bill or resolution, to the House of Assembly.

MOTIONS AND THEIR PRECEDENCE.

36. When a motion shall be made, it shall be reduced to writing by the President or any Senator, and delivered to the Secretary at his table and read before the same shall be debatable.

37. All motions entered on the Journal of the Senate shall be entered in the names of the Senators who make them.

38. If the question in debate contains several points, any Senator may have the same divided; but a motion to strike out and insert, or to commit with instructions, shall not be divided.

39. The rejection of a motion to strike out and insert one proposition shall not prevent a motion to strike out and insert a different proposition, nor prevent a subsequent motion simply to strike out; nor shall the rejection of a motion simply to strike out prevent a subsequent motion to strike out and insert.

40. On filling blanks the question shall be first taken on the largest sum, the greatest number, and the most distant day.

41. When motions are made for reference of the same subject to a Select Committee, and to a Standing Committee, the question of reference to a Standing Committee shall be put first.

42. When a question is before the Senate, no motion shall be received but—

1. To adjourn.
2. To proceed to the consideration of Executive business.
3. To lay on the table.
4. To postpone indefinitely.
5. To postpone to a certain day.
6. To commit.
7. To amend.

Which several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they stand arranged.

43. The motion to adjourn, or to fix a day to which the Senate shall adjourn, shall always be in order, except when a vote is being taken or while a Senator is addressing the Senate.

44. The motions to adjourn, to proceed to the consideration of Executive business, and to lay on the table, shall be decided without debate.

45. A motion to strike out the enacting clause of a bill shall have precedence of a motion to amend, and if carried shall be equivalent to its rejection.

46. When a motion shall have been once made and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any Senator who voted on the prevailing side to move a reconsideration thereof on the same day or next succeeding day of actual session; but no motion for the reconsideration of any vote shall be in order after a bill, resolution, message, report, amendment or motion upon which the vote was taken, announcing their decision, shall have gone from the possession of the Senate, and they shall not pass from the possession of the Senate until the expiration of the time in which a reconsideration is permitted; and every motion for reconsideration shall be decided by a majority of votes, except a motion to reconsider the vote on the final passage of a bill or joint resolution, which shall require the same majority as is necessary for their final passage.

MEMBERS.

47. The seats within the bar shall be reserved exclusively for the Senators, the officers of the Senate, and the reporters of the press who may have seats assigned them.

48. No Senator shall speak in any debate without rising, nor more than three times on any subject of debate, unless he shall first obtain leave of the Senate.

49. Every Senator, in speaking, shall address the President, confine himself to the question under debate, and avoid personality.

50. Any Senator may change his vote before the decision of the question shall have been announced by the Chair.

51. No Senator shall have his vote recorded on any question, when the yeas and nays are called, unless he shall be present to answer to his name.

MESSAGES.

52. All messages shall be sent to the House of Assembly by the Secretary, under the direction of the President, as a standing order, without a vote thereon.

53. Messages may be delivered at any stage of the business, except when a vote is being taken.

54. When a message shall be sent from the Governor or House of Assembly to the Senate, it shall be announced at the door by the Sergeant-at-Arms.

SENATE BILLS IN THE HOUSE.

55. When an amendment made in the Senate to a bill from the House of Assembly shall be disagreed to by that House, and not adhered to by the Senate, the bill shall be considered as standing on a third reading.

56. An amendment of the House of Assembly to a Senate bill shall not be divisible.

57. In case of disagreement between the Senate and House of Assembly, the Senate may either recede, insist and ask a conference, or adhere, and motions for such purposes shall take precedence in that order.

58. When a Senate bill shall be returned, amended by the House of Assembly, the sections of the bill so amended, together with the amendments, shall be read by the Secretary for a first reading and be entitled to a second reading without special motion, at which reading the proposed amendments shall be open to the action of the Senate. And if, at its third reading, upon the question being put by the President, "Will the Senate concur in the House amendment to Senate bill No. —?" a majority of the whole Senate should, by a vote of yeas and nays, concur, the question shall then be upon ordering the bill to be re-printed. If so ordered, the bill shall be re-printed, the amendments embodied therein and the re-printed bill examined and reported by the Committee on Printed Bills and read in open Senate, to the end that it may be known to be correctly printed, and shall be then signed and certified as other bills.

DISORDER.

59. In case of any disturbance in the gallery or lobby, the President shall have power to order the same to be cleared.

60. The Sergeant-at-Arms shall aid in the enforcement of order, under the direction of the President.

61. No Senator, in speaking, shall mention a Senator then present by his name.

SPECIAL ORDERS.

62. When the hour shall have arrived for the consideration of a special order, the same shall be taken up, and the Senate shall proceed to consider it, unless it shall be postponed by the Senate.

63. The unfinished business in which the Senate shall have been engaged at the last preceding adjournment shall have the preference in the special order of the day.

64. No concurrent resolution shall pass unless by the consent of a majority of the Senators elected.

SECRET SESSION.

65. On motion made and seconded to shut the doors of the Senate on the discussion of any business which may, in the opinion of a Senator, require secrecy, the President shall direct the chamber to be cleared, and during the discussion of such motion the doors shall remain shut.

RULES.

66. No standing rule or order of the Senate shall be suspended unless by the consent of two-thirds of the Senators elected, nor rescinded or amended but by the same number, and one day's notice shall be given of the motion for rescission or amendment.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

67. When nominations shall be made by the Governor to the Senate, they shall, unless otherwise ordered by the Senate, be referred to appropriate committees; and the final question on every nomination shall be, "Will the Senate advise and consent to this nomination?" which question shall not be put on the same day on which the nomination is received, nor on the day on which it may be reported by a committee, unless by the unanimous consent of the Senate.

68. When acting on Executive business the Senate shall be cleared of all persons except the Senators and Secretary.

69. All information or remarks concerning the character or qualifications of any persons nominated by the Governor to office shall be kept a secret.

70. The Legislative and Executive proceedings of the Senate shall be kept in separate and distinct books.

71. All nominations approved by the Senate, or otherwise definitely acted on, shall be transmitted by the Secretary to the Governor, with the determination of the Senate thereon, from day to day, as such proceedings may occur; but no further extract from the Executive journal shall be furnished, published or otherwise communicated, except by special order of the Senate.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

RULES ADOPTED THIS YEAR.

OF THE MEETING OF THE HOUSE.

1. Any member or members less than a quorum may meet and adjourn the House from day to day, when necessary.

2. Every member shall attend in his place precisely at the hour to which the House was last adjourned; and in case of neglect, he shall be subject to a reprimand from the Chair, unless excused by the House; nor shall any member absent himself from the House for more than the space of a quarter of an hour without leave previously obtained.

3. In case a less number of members than a quorum shall be present after the arrival of the hour to which the House stood adjourned, they are hereby authorized to send their Sergeant-at-Arms, or any other person or persons by them authorized, with a warrant duly executed, for any and all absent members, as the majority of such as are present may agree, and at the expense of such absent members, respectively, unless such excuse for non-attendance shall be rendered as the House, when a quorum is convened, shall judge sufficient. Immediately after the appointment of the Standing Committees, the members shall arrange among themselves their several seats appropriated to their counties; and in case of disagreement, the same shall be decided by lot.

OF THE DUTIES OF THE SPEAKER.

4. He shall take the chair at the hour to which the House shall have adjourned, and immediately call the members to order; and on the appearance of a quorum, shall cause the journal of the preceding day to be read, which may then be corrected by the House.

5. He shall preserve order and decorum, and in debate shall prevent personal reflections, and confine members to the question under discussion; but he shall not engage in any debate, nor propose his opinion on any question, without first calling on some member to occupy the chair. When two or more members rise at the same time, he shall name the one entitled to the floor.

6. He shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the House, when demanded by any four members, on which appeal no member shall speak more than once, unless by leave of the House.

7. All questions before the House shall be stated by the Speaker, and distinctly put in the following form, to wit: "As many as are in favor of (the question) will say aye;" and after the affirmative is expressed, "Those of a contrary opinion, no." If the Speaker doubts, or a division be called for, the House shall divide; those in the affirmative of the question shall first rise from their seats, and afterwards those in the negative; and in case of an equal division, the Speaker shall decide.

8. All Committees shall be appointed by the Speaker, unless otherwise specially directed by the House.

9. All acts, addresses and joint resolutions shall be signed by the Speaker; and all writs, warrants and subpoenas issued by the order of the House shall be under his hand and seal, and attested by the Clerk. If the Speaker be absent, a less number of members than a quorum may appoint a Speaker pro tempore, who may sign any warrants, or perform any act requisite to bring in absent members.

10. He shall have a general direction of the hall, and he may name a member to perform the duties of the Chair; but such substitution shall not extend beyond a second adjournment.

OF THE ORDER OF BUSINESS.

11. After the reading of the journal, the business of the first meeting of each day shall be conducted in the following manner, to wit:

I. Letters, petitions and memorials, remonstrances and accompanying documents may be presented and disposed of.

II. Reports of Committees may be read.

III. Original resolutions may be offered and considered; items of unfinished business referred; motions to reconsider and to appoint additional members of Committees made; and leave of absence, leave to withdraw documents, and leave to introduce bills asked.

LEAVE FOR BILLS AND TO INTRODUCE BILLS.

IV. Bills and joint resolutions on a third reading may be taken up.

V. The House shall then proceed in the order of the day, preference being always given to the unfinished business of the previous sitting; after which bills and joint resolutions on a second reading shall be taken in their order; and the House, in its afternoon session, will proceed to business as though there had been no adjournment of its morning session, excepting that original resolutions, and leave to introduce bills of Committees, be the first business in the afternoon session; and shall, on demand of the majority, proceed with the order of the day.

12. The Clerk shall make a list of all public bills and joint resolutions. He shall keep a separate calendar of private bills. No bills for granting, continuing, altering, amending, or renewing a charter for any corporation, other than a municipal corporation, shall be placed on the calendar of public bills. All bills, public and private, shall be numbered according to the time of their introduction into the House. They shall be taken up and considered in the order of time in which they were reported, or ordered to a third reading, as appears by the calendar; and the calendar shall be proceeded in until all the bills thereon are called up before the commencement of the calendar anew.

13. All messages shall be sent from this House to the Senate by the Clerk.

OF DECORUM AND DEBATE.

14. When a member is about to speak in debate, or communicate any matter to the House, he shall rise from his seat and respectfully address himself to the Speaker, confining himself to the question under debate, and avoiding personality.

15. If any member in debate transgress the rules of the House, the Speaker shall, or any member may, call him to order, in which case the member so called to order shall immediately sit down, unless permitted to explain. The House shall, if appealed to, decide on the case, but without debate; if there be no appeal, the decision of the Chair shall be submitted to. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he shall be at liberty to proceed; if otherwise, he shall not be permitted to proceed without leave of the House, and if the case require it, he shall be liable to censure of the House.

16. If a member be called to order for words spoken in debate, the person calling him to order shall repeat the words excepted to, and they shall be taken down in writing at the Clerk's table; and no member shall be held to answer, or be subject to the censure of the House, for words spoken in debate, if any other member has spoken, or other business has intervened after the words spoken, and before exception to them shall have been taken.

17. No member shall speak more than twice, or longer than five minutes each time, without leave of the House.

18. While the Speaker is putting any question, or addressing the House, none shall walk out of or across the hall; nor in such case, or when a member is speaking, shall anyone entertain private discourse; nor shall anyone, while a member is speaking, pass between him and the Chair.

19. No member shall vote on any question in the event of which he is particularly interested, nor in any case where he was not within the bar of the House when the question was put.

20. Every member who shall be in the House when the question is put shall give his vote, unless the House for special reasons shall excuse him. All motions to excuse a member from voting shall be made before the House divides, or before the call of the yeas and nays is commenced; any member requesting to be excused from voting may make a brief verbal statement of the reasons for such request, and the question shall then be taken without further debate.

21. Petitions, memorials and other papers addressed to the House shall be presented by the Speaker, or by a member in his place; a brief statement of the contents thereof shall be made by the introducer, and, if called upon, he shall declare that it does not, in his opinion, contain any indecent or reproachful language, or any expressions of disrespect to the House, or any committee of the same.

22. It shall be the duty of the Sergeant-at-Arms, at all times, not to allow any person to smoke in the Assembly chamber.

ON MOTIONS.

23. Every motion shall be reduced to writing, if the Speaker or any member desire it.

24. When a motion is made and seconded, it shall be stated by the Speaker, or being in writing, it shall be handed to the Chair and read aloud by the Clerk, when it shall be deemed to be in the possession of the House and open to debate; but it may be withdrawn at any time before a decision or amendment.

25. When a question is under debate no motion shall be received but—

1. To adjourn.

2. A call of the House.

3. To lay on the table.
4. For the previous question.
5. To postpone indefinitely.
6. To postpone to a day certain.
7. To go into a Committee of the Whole on the pending subject immediately.
8. To commit to a Committee of the Whole.
9. To commit to a Standing Committee.
10. To commit to a Select Committee.
11. To amend.

Which several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are stated, and no motion to postpone to a day certain, to commit, or to postpone indefinitely, being decided, shall be again allowed on the same day, and at the same stage of the bill or proposition.

26. A motion to strike out the enacting clause of a bill or joint resolution shall have precedence of a motion to amend, and if carried shall be considered equivalent to its rejection.

27. A motion to adjourn shall be always in order, except when the House is voting, or while a member is addressing the House, or immediately after the question to adjourn has been negatived; that, and the motion to lay on the table, shall be decided without debate.

28. Any member may call for a division of the question, which shall be divided if it comprehends questions so distinct that one being taken away from the rest may stand entire for the decision of the House; a motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible; but a motion to strike out being lost, shall preclude neither amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.

29. When any motion shall be made and seconded, the same shall, at the request of any two members, be entered on the Journal of the House.

30. When a motion has been once made and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member who voted with the prevailing party to move for the reconsideration thereof, on the same day or on the next day of actual session of the House thereafter; all motions may be reconsidered, by a majority of the members present; but bills, to be reconsidered, must have the same majority that would be necessary to pass them; and such vote, on motion to reconsider, shall be by taking the yeas and nays.

31. When a blank is to be filled, the question shall first be taken on the largest sum, or greatest number, and remotest day.

32. The yeas and nays shall be entered on the Journal of the House, when moved for and seconded by five members, and in taking the yeas and nays the names of the members, including the Speaker, shall be called alphabetically.

33. The previous question shall be put in this form: "Shall the main question be now put?" It shall only be admitted when demanded by a majority of the members present, and its effect shall be, if decided affirmatively, to put an end to all debate, and bring the House to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, then upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question; if decided in the negative, to leave the main question and amendments if any, under debate for the residue of the sitting, unless sooner disposed of by taking the question, or in some other manner. All incidental questions of order arising after a motion is made for the previous question, and pending such motion, shall be decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, without debate.

34. After the Clerk has commenced calling the yeas and nays on any question, no motion shall be received until a decision shall have been announced by the Chair.

If ordered to a third reading, the amendments shall be read, but these readings shall be on different days; the question shall then be, "Will the House of Assembly concur in the Senate amendments to Assembly bill No. —?" upon which question the votes shall be by yeas and nays. If concurred in by a majority of the whole House, the bill shall be re-printed, the amendments embodied therein, and the re-printed bill examined and reported upon by the Committee on Printed Bills, and read in open Assembly, to the end that it may be known to be correctly printed, and then signed and certified as other bills.

Every bill amended in the House, after its report by the committee to which it was referred upon introduction, shall, when ordered to be printed and have a third reading, be delivered to the Committee on Bill Revision, whose duty it shall be to examine the same, and if it be found that such amendment agrees with the context the bill shall then be printed. If in the opinion of the committee such amendment is, as to form, improper, they shall report to the House with such recommendation as they think fit. Such report shall be made promptly.

67. That hereafter any motion or resolution which will result in relieving a standing committee of a bill referred to it, shall not be entertained unless twenty-four hours' notice shall be given the House of the introduction of such motion or resolution.

68. When a bill is introduced amending an existing law, it must, in the body of the bill, have all new matter underscored, and all portions of the law proposed to be omitted must be printed in its proper place, enclosed in black-faced brackets.

All bills reported with amendments shall be immediately reprinted; the new matter must be underscored, and all matter proposed to be eliminated by amendment must be included in brackets.

It shall be the duty of the Speaker to direct the Clerk to cause any bill appearing on the calendar and not complying with this rule to be immediately amended and reprinted, so as to comply with the same, and when reprinted it shall be restored to its place on the calendar.

On April 24th, of the same year, Governor Parker nominated the following gentlemen, who were duly confirmed by the Senate:

STATE INSTITUTIONS.

THE STATE CAPITOL.

This edifice, a massive structure, erected at sundry times and various periods, is located on West State street, at the corner of Delaware street, running thence westerly along State street to the grounds of the late ex-Chancellor Green, and southerly to the Water Power. The location is a good one, and although the style of the building is not modern, yet it answers the purposes for which it was intended, even if it does not present a very imposing appearance.

The seat of Government was fixed at Trenton by an act of the Legislature, approved November 25th, 1790. James Cooper, Thomas Lowery, James Ewing, Maskell Ewing, George Anderson, James Mott and Moore Furman were appointed commissioners to select, purchase or accept so much land as was needed, and to erect thereon suitable buildings for the use of the Legislature. They purchased the present site, containing about three and three-quarters acres—a frontage on Second street (now West State street) of 247 feet and 6 inches, and a depth from the front to low water line of the Delaware river of 663 feet—at a cost of £250 5s. The old State House was a plain, bare-looking, rought-cast building, and was erected at a cost of £3,992 3s. ½d. By an act of March 4th, 1795, a building was erected to serve as an office for the Secretary of State, and for the preservation of the public records, at a cost of £620 19s. 10d. Numerous improvements and repairs were made, and on March 3d, 1806, an act was passed appointing commissioners to make certain repairs to the State House, to provide and hang a suitable bell, &c. This was done, and the bell was used for informing the members of both houses, as well as the courts, of the hour of meeting. The bell was eventually discarded, and an American flag substituted, which waves from the building unto this day, when the Legislature is in session, and upon holidays and State occasions. In 1848, the State House was altered by the removal of the rough-casting, and changing the front to the style of the Mercer County Court House, placing neat porticoes over the front and rear entrances, and erecting two additional buildings adjoining the main one, as offices for the Clerks of the Chancery and Supreme Courts. The rotunda was also erected, and the grounds fenced, graded, laid out and shade trees planted, all at a cost of $27,000. The commissioners under whose directions the work was completed, were Samuel R. Gummere, Samuel R. Hamilton and Stacy A. Paxson. In 1863, '64 and '65, appropriations were made and expended in building additions for the State Library, Executive Chambers, &c. In 1871, Charles S. Olden, Thomas J. Stryker and Lewis Perrine were appointed commissioners to cause a suitable addition to be built—more commodious apartments for the Senate and Assembly, &c. The sum of $50,000 was appropriated, and the buildings for the Legislature were ready for occupancy in time for the meeting of the Legislature in 1872. In 1872, $120,000 was appropriated for completing the building, $3,000 for fitting up the Executive Chamber, $4,000 for fitting up the Chancery and Supreme Court rooms, and $2,000 for fitting up the offices on the first floor of the east wing. In 1873, the sum of $43,000 was appropriated for the improvement of the front of the building, completing unfinished repairs and improvements, and for fitting up the Library, &c. On March 18th, 1875, the sum of $15,000 was appropriated for the purpose of putting a new three-story front to the building, and to fit up offices on the second floor for the Clerks of the Court of Chancery and Supreme Court, and for providing a suitable museum for geological specimens, and the battle-flags of New Jersey volunteer regiments, carried during the war of the Rebellion.

On March 21st, 1885, the front portion was destroyed by fire, and the Legislature appropriated $50,000 for rebuilding, and, in 1886, an additional appropriation of $225,000 was granted.

The new building was finished in 1889. It is of rectangular shape and of the Renaissance style of architecture, with a frontage of one hundred and sixty feet on State street, a depth of sixty-seven feet, and three and a half stories high, with a rotunda thirty-nine feet across, which connects the new section of the Capitol with the original part. The rotunda is surmounted by a dome one hundred and forty-five feet high.

The building has about sixty feet more frontage than the former one, and approaches about ten feet nearer the street.

The walls are constructed of solid, fire-proof, brick masonry, faced with a light-colored stone from Indiana, known as Salem Oolitic, with foundations and trimmings of New Jersey free stone, from the Prallsville quarries, in Hunterdon county. The portico, door-head and trimmings about the door are of the same material. The portico, with balcony, is supported by massive pillars of polished granite and surmounted by the coat of arms of the State.

The apartments used for offices are very spacious, fitted throughout in the most approved modern style, and each department is supplied with one or more of the finest fire-proof vaults. The first and second stories are set aside for offices, and the entire third story is used for the State Library.

The old State Library apartments have been improved and extended, and are now used as offices for the Attorney-General, State Superintendent of Public Instruction and Commissioner of Banking and Insurance. A new story was added, which is used for the Geological Museum and State offices.

In 1891, a new Assembly Chamber was erected. The old one was too small and poorly ventilated, and besides, there was a lack of suitable committee rooms. The Legislature of 1891 passed a Joint Resolution, which was approved on March 20th, authorizing the Governor "to provide a suitable chamber and committee rooms for the use of the General Assembly of this State," &c., and also, "to make such additions and alterations as will afford the necessary accommodations for the Supreme Court and Court of Errors and Appeals, or for other State offices, and sufficient money is hereby appropriated for that purpose, to be paid by the Treasurer of this State on the warrant of the Comptroller, after approval by the Governor."

The new chamber was built by James W. Lanning, of Trenton, from plans prepared by James Moylan, of Jersey City, and under the superintendency of Bernard J. Ford, of Newark. It covers the site of the former chamber, and extends beyond it to Delaware street on the east and to the water power on the south. It has a frontage on Delaware street of 120 feet and a depth of 75 feet. The exterior finish and design of the building are similar to the adjoining portion of the Capitol. The foundation is of brown stone, from the Stockton quarries, and the trimmings of light Indiana stone. The interior is finished in Trenton tile, quartered oak and Italian statuary marble. It is a fire-proof building throughout, and is specially ventilated. The committee rooms are ample and convenient, and the interior design, arrangement and finish make it a model legislative chamber. It cost the State $140,500. The cost of the steam heating and ventilating systems was about $25,000.

The other new addition to the Capitol provides a consultation room for the Judges of the Supreme Court and the Court of Errors and Appeals and a private room for the Governor, a room for the Museum of the Geological Survey, and other offices, and cost $34,500.

An electric light apparatus was also placed in the Capitol, which cost $23,000. Every department in the building is now lighted by electricity.

A new Otis elevator has been placed in the front part of the building, which gives easy access to all the upper floors.

In 1900 the Legislature appropriated $96,000 for additions and alterations to the Capitol, which included the cost of an electric light plant.

THE STATE LIBRARY.

This valuable collection of books is located on the third floor of the State Capitol. The old saying, "Great oaks from little acorns grow," most appropriately applies to this institution.

The first library of the State was a case ordered to be procured by Maskell Ewing, Clerk of the House of Assembly, for the keeping and preservation of such books as belonged to the Legislature. It was ordered by a resolution passed March 18th, 1796. This was the nucleus of the present extensive library. On February 18th, 1804, William Coxe, of Burlington; Ezra Darby, of Essex, and John A. Scudder, of Monmouth, were appointed a Committee on Rules, and to make a catalogue; they reported that there were 168 volumes belonging to the State, and presented a code of seven rules, which was adopted. On February 10th, 1813, an act (the first one) was passed, entitled "An act concerning the State Library." Up to 1822 it appears that the Clerk of the House had charge of the books, as Librarian, and, on November 16th, 1822, an act was passed for the appointment of a State Librarian, annually, by joint meeting. In 1846, on April 10th, an act was passed making the term of office three years. The Law Library at that time belonged to the members of the Law Library Association. The only persons allowed the use of the Library were members of the Association, the Chancellor, and the judges of the several courts. Stacy G. Potts was Treasurer and Librarian of the Association. The Law Library was kept in the Supreme Court room until 1837, when the Legislature authorized the State Librarian to fit up a room adjoining the Library for the care and reception of the books and papers belonging to the State Library.

Thus the two Libraries were consolidated. On March 13th, 1872, $5,000 per year for three years was appropriated for the Library by the Legislature, and by the act of March 15th, 1876, the sum of $2,500 was appropriated for finishing and refurnishing the Library room. In 1890, the Library was removed to the third story of the new part of the Capitol.

THE STATE ARSENAL.

The building now used as the State Arsenal was formerly the old State Prison. It is situate on Second street, in the Sixth Ward of the city of Trenton, and has on its front the following inscription:

Labor, Silence, Penitence.
 The Penitentiary House.
 Erected by Legislative Authority.
 Richard Howell, Governor.
 In the XXII. Year of American Independence, MDCCXCVII.
 That Those Who Are Feared for Their
 Crimes May Learn to Fear the Laws
 And be Useful.
 Hic Labor, Hoc Opus.

In the messages of Governors P. D. Vroom and S. L. Southard, recommending the erection of the new prison, it was proposed that the old one be converted into an Arsenal for the safe keeping of the arms and military property of the State, which, previous to that time, had been kept in the old State Bank, corner of Warren and Bank streets, with accoutrements and camp and garrison equipage at the State House. After the removal of the State convicts from the old prison, permission was given to the county of Mercer to occupy it as a jail until its jail, then in course of completion, was finished, and when it was again vacated it was converted into an arsenal.

Among the stores, &c., at the Arsenal are one bronze gun, French, of the date of 1758; two bronze guns, English, four-pounders, and two iron six-pounders. There is also one gun captured at the battle of Trenton, December 26th, 1776, and two guns captured at Yorktown, October 19th, 1781. There are also a large quantity of fire-arms, ammunition, ordnance, tents, clothing, blankets, &c.

STATE HOSPITAL.Trenton.

This institution is located on the right bank of the Delaware River, about two miles northwest of the City Hall. The buildings are constructed of reddish sandstone, obtained from quarries near the hospital, and are located on an elevation of about seventy-five feet above the river. The front of the Main or Administration Building is ornamented by a handsome porch of Ionic architecture, designed by the celebrated Notman, from which may be obtained one of the finest landscape views in the State.

In 1844, after repeated and unsuccessful attempts to cause action to be taken by the Legislature for the building of a State institution for the special care and treatment of the insane, a commission was appointed, chiefly through the earnest efforts of Dr. Lyndon A. Smith, of Essex, and Dr. Lewis Condict, of Morris, and the eminent philanthropist, Miss D. L. Dix, to select a site. An appropriation of $35,000 was made to purchase the land, and to commence the erection of the building. The present site was selected by the commissioners from among many that were offered in various sections of the State because of the large spring of excellent water found on the place. This spring was developed, and furnished a daily supply of about one-half millions of gallons of pure water for many years. In the severe drought of 1880 the supply was greatly diminished, falling off nearly two hundred and fifty thousand gallons, and it has never regained its full and former capacity. The spring is now supplemented by driven wells, three in number, and each one over three hundred feet deep. These with the spring, are capable of supplying daily a half million gallons of excellent water. In 1896 a standpipe for storing water and securing a fire pressure was erected, with a capacity of five hundred thousand gallons.

Work was commenced on the main building in November of 1845, and the hospital was opened for the reception of patients on the 15th day of May, 1848. Numerous additions have been made from time to time to the building, increasing its capacity from fifty patients, in 1848, to eight hundred and fifty patients, in 1898.

In 1887, the Legislature passed an act appropriating $100,000 for providing additional accommodations. The new building is a handsome structure of red sandstone, and similar to that used in the main building. This is five hundred feet long, three stories in height, and capable of accommodating three hundred patients, one hundred and fifty of each sex. The building is designed to accommodate the chronic incurable class, and was a great relief from the overcrowded state that existed in the main building prior to its completion. The building was completed within the appropriation, and opened for the reception of patients in the month of October, 1889.

Since the opening of the institution in May, 1848, there have been received and treated 9,860 patients. At the close of the fiscal year, October 31st, 1900, there were under care in the hospital 1,117 patients. Much has been done for the comfort and pleasure of the patients. A green-house has been erected for the purpose of furnishing plants and flowers for the patients' corridors, handsome pictures adorn the walls, and everything about the hospital presents a comfortable and homelike appearance.

The institution possesses a library, one of the largest, if not the largest, in this country connected with a hospital for the insane. The books are accessible to all members of the household. They have been freely used, and do much to relieve the monotony of many an hour of hospital life. The library now consists of about 4,000 volumes, and is the result of the bequest of a former nurse (Anne Robinson), who, by will, bequeathed her earnings for several years as a nurse and attendant in this hospital. She made the bequest, as she herself expressed it when making her will, for the purpose of purchasing books to be used for the pleasure and benefit of those to whom she had, for so many years, endeavored to minister.

During the year 1898, a handsome amusement room, capable of seating about four hundred, was finished; also, a large and commodious chapel, in which religious exercises are held from time to time; various clergymen, without regard to denominational preference, officiate every Sunday. The new chapel is capable of seating about five hundred patients.

STATE HOSPITAL.

Morris Plains.

In order to relieve the crowded condition of the Trenton Asylum, and make further provision for the increasing number of the insane, commissioners were appointed by the Legislature of 1871 to select a site and build an institution in the northern portion of the State. About 408 acres of land were purchased, at a cost of $78,732.36, in Hanover township, Morris county, and a site for the institution was selected on the foot hills of the Watnong range of the Blue Ridge Mountains, at an elevation of 520 feet above the sea level. The location is ideal for an institution of its kind, being unsurpassed in this particular by any similar institution in this country. A magnificent view of the surrounding country is commanded. The air is cool and balmy in summer, and crisp and stimulating in winter.

The institution is a four-story building, of granite quarried on the premises, and trimmed with brown sandstone. The total length is 1,243 feet, and the depth, from the front of the main center building to the rear of the extreme wings, is 542 feet, constituting at present the largest institution for the insane under one roof in the world, and one of the finest buildings of its kind in the United States.

The building was planned and constructed to accommodate 800 patients, but at present has a population of more than 1,250 insane. The total cost was about $2,250,000. It was first occupied by patients on August 17th, 1876.

The Legislature of 1895 appropriated $125,000 for additional buildings and improvements. The foundation of the new building was laid to accommodate 600 patients, and provide suitable laboratory facilities for the further prosecution of scientific work. An appropriation was also made for the extension of the water-supply, and an additional tract of land was purchased, bringing the total extent of the hospital's property up to about 720 acres. On a portion of this land an additional reservoir, with a capacity of 6,500,000 gallons, has since been built. The Legislature of 1898 appropriated $150,000, enabling the management to give out contracts looking to the completion of the administration portion of the building, the north wing, associate dining-rooms, amusement hall, and pathological laboratories.

The barns and outbuildings belonging to the institution are in excellent condition, and the farm is in a high state of cultivation.

NORMAL AND MODEL SCHOOLS.

These schools are the property of the State, and are located at the junction of Perry street and Clinton avenue, Trenton. There are two buildings, the one for the schools located on the west side of Clinton avenue, the other, containing the boarding halls and dormitories, situated on the east side of the avenue. These schools were established in 1855 by an act of the Legislature. The purpose of the Normal School was defined to be "the training and education of its pupils in such branches of knowledge, and such methods of teaching and governing, as will qualify them for teachers of our common schools." The Model School was designed to be a place where "the pupils of the Normal School shall have opportunity to observe and practice the modes of instruction and discipline inculcated in the Normal School, and in which pupils may be prepared for the Normal School."

The following figures show the original cost and present valuation of the Normal School property:

The enrollments in 1855 were as follows: Normal School, 43; Model School, 125. For the year ending June 30th, 1903, these enrollments had increased to 552 in the Normal and 534 in the Model. During its history the Normal School has graduated 3,331 students.

The Principals of the schools have been as follows: William F. Phelps, A. M., October 1st, 1855, to March 15th, 1865; John S. Hart, LL. D., March 15th, 1865, to February 7th, 1871; Lewis M. Johnson, A. M., February 7th, 1871, to July 1st, 1876; Washington Hasbrouck, Ph. D., July 1st, 1876, to February 10th, 1889; James M. Green, Ph. D., February 10th, 1889, to the present.

THE STATE HOME FOR BOYS.

"The New Jersey State Reform School" was established by act of the Legislature approved April 6th, 1865. A farm of 490 acres was purchased for the purpose near Jamesburg, Middlesex county.

The first boy was received July 6th, 1867. Its first Superintendent was Rev. Luther H. Sheldon, who was in office from April 10th, 1867, till April 1st, 1874, and was succeeded by James H. Eastman, who was Superintendent from April 1st, 1874, till September 15th, 1884. Upon his withdrawal Ira Otterson was made acting Superintendent, and on December 10th, 1884, he was unanimously elected Superintendent, and is still the executive head of the institution.

From the opening of the school till the close of the fiscal year (October 31st, 1899), there had been received by commitment into the care of the school, 3,236 boys.

Owing to the probable opening at an early date of the State Reformatory, for an older class, it was thought best by the Legislative Committee on The Reform School, of the session of the Legislature of 1900, to change the name of The Reform School to "The State Home for Boys," so as to avoid confusion in matters of business, and unjust reflection upon boys going out with honorable parole from the institution.

Since founding the school, beside the Administration building, there have been erected on the campus seven family buildings (one of them a double building), capable of accommodating fifty boys each, a chapel, hospital, store and cook house, industrial building, electric light, heat and power generating station, and farm buildings, all of brick, many of the buildings constructed with bricks manufactured by the boys on the place.

Beside domestic and farm labor, all boys are instructed in the rudiments of an English school education, and many receive instruction in different mechanical branches and band music.

In 1900 there was erected by boys' labor, under regular instructors, a building 40 by 100 feet, two stories high, in which are established schools for trade teaching. While in the past, so far as the accommodations would permit, a number of boys have received instruction in mechanical trades, and with the accommodations furnished in the new building, it is hoped a greater number of boys may receive a more thorough knowledge in lines of skilled handicraft, which will the better prepare them to become good citizens.

The members of the Board of Trustees realizing the needs of the boys, and deeply interested in the future welfare of these wards of the State, devote much time to the conduct of its affairs, and in consideration of that which will promote its greatest good. Their services are given without compensation, their actual expenses being paid by the State.

STATE HOME FOR GIRLS.

This institution is located on the line of the Trenton Branch of the Delaware and Bound Brook Railroad, in Ewing township, near the Trenton Lunatic Asylum, and is located on a farm of about 79 acres of land. A substantial building was erected, at a cost of $23,334, and other improvements made, which bring the value of the place, with furniture, &c., up to $37,740. Previous to the erection of the new building, the school was at "Pine Grove," in the Sixth Ward of the city of Trenton. This place had been leased so as to afford room for persons sentenced under the act of April 4th, 1871. The Legislature of 1900 appropriated $30,000 for the erection of an additional building.

THE STATE PRISON.

The New Jersey State Prison, situated on the block enclosed by Federal, Third, Cass and Second streets, in the city of Trenton, is one of the finest institutions of its kind in the country. Its erection was authorized by an act of the Legislature passed February 13th, 1832, and it was completed in the year 1836, having 150 cells, at a cost of $179,657.11. It was built of red sand-stone, from the Ewing quarries, and the style of its architecture is Egyptian, having four Egyptian columns in front of the main entrance, on Third street. It consists of a main building, used as a residence for the Keeper and as reception rooms and offices. From time to time the prison has been enlarged, and although there is not sufficient room to afford separate confinement for each prisoner, as required by law, the provisions of the act are carried out as far as possible. The rules and regulations now in force have brought the internal affairs of the institution, as to cleanliness, discipline, victualing, &c., to a much higher standard than was ever before reached, and a visit thereto will convince the visitor that the management is as perfect as can be.

On March 4th, 1847, $5,000 was appropriated to build an additional wing to the original building. On March 25th, 1852, $15,000 was granted for the erection of a new wing for hospital purposes. On March 22d, 1860, the sum of $17,000 was voted for the purpose of building an additional wing for cells, and on February 16th, 1861, a further sum of $2,243.01 was appropriated to complete the same. On April 16th, 1868, $6,000 was appropriated for the building of an additional wing to provide room for female convicts. An act passed April 2d, 1869, provided for the appointment of commissioners to extend the grounds of the prison to the wall of the State Arsenal, to build an additional wing and work shops, and made an appropriation of $50,000 for that purpose, and in the same month $9,734 was appropriated for the purpose of completing the wing of the female department. On April 4th, 1871, the sum of $75,000 was appropriated for the purpose of completing the new or east wing, and on April 4th, 1872, a further sum of $28,700 was appropriated for the completion of the same. March 3d, 1874, $12,000 was voted for the construction of gas works for the supply of illuminating gas for the prison. On March 8th, 1877, the sum of $100,000 was appropriated for the enlargement of the prison and the purchase of a burial ground for deceased convicts. The north wing was remodeled out of this last appropriation, and a burial ground purchased. The Legislature of 1895 appropriated $150,000 for the enlargement and improvement of the prison. The Legislature of 1899 appropriated $14,000 for alterations in the women's wing of the prison.

Previous to the year 1798 there was no State Prison, and prisoners were confined in the county jails. On March 1st, 1797, Jonathan Doane was appointed by an act of the Legislature as an agent to purchase a lot of land from Peter Hunt, situate at Lamberton, containing six and a half acres, and to erect suitable buildings thereon. This was done at an expense of £9,852 0s. 3d., and what is now the State Arsenal, at Second and Cass streets, is the result. Solitary confinement was not practiced previous to 1836, in which year the old prison was vacated and the present one occupied.

SOLDIERS' HOME.

This institution is located in Kearny township, Hudson county, to which place it was removed from Newark in 1888. It was organized under a joint resolution of the Legislature approved April 12th, 1862. The Home in Newark was opened July 4th, 1866. The Legislatures of 1886 and 1887 appropriated $175,000 for the erection of a new Home, under the direction of Commissioners appointed by the Legislature. The present site, consisting of 17½ acres, was selected, and six new and commodious buildings were erected thereon. The Home has a frontage of 600 feet on the Passaic river, and contains over three hundred inmates.

SCHOOL FOR DEAF-MUTES.

This institution, which is located at Trenton, is a part of the public school system of the State, and is open to deaf residents of the State between the ages of eight and twenty-one years. The pupils are instructed in the branches of common-school education, and are also trained in some handicraft. Speech is taught to all who can acquire it, and with such success that in some classes it becomes the principal means of communication.

The industrial department is larger and better equipped than in most schools of this kind. From the printing office is issued monthly a paper, the Silent Worker, which, in point of mechanical execution and of quality of contents, ranks as the best issued from any institution in the country. All the work on this paper is performed by pupils of the school.

The wood-working department, under the charge of a graduate of a technical school of high rank, has a course in which theory and practice are united in an unusual degree.

A course of kindergarten work, especially adapted to the deaf child, has been worked out in the school, and has been followed by some of the best schools of the kind in this country.

A building for hospital purposes, designed in accordance with the best modern practice and ample to meet any possible need, was opened in 1899.

The attendance of pupils has risen from 125 in June, 1896, until at the present time it is about 150.

The school possesses a well chosen library, which at present contains about 1,500 volumes, and is rapidly growing.

INSTITUTION FOR FEEBLE-MINDED WOMEN.

Vineland.

This institution was established under an act of March 27th, 1888, with the late Prof. S. O. Garrison, who drafted the original law, as the first superintendent. On November 15th of the same year he was succeeded by Mary J. Dunlap, M. D. It is one of the most admirably situated public buildings in the State. Lying opposite the New Jersey Training School for Feeble-Minded Children, and facing Landis avenue, Vineland's main street of several miles in length, it enjoys facilities of the city yet surrounded by acres of fruit, vineyards and orchards. The main building is well arranged, and a large annex was erected in the winter of 1891-92. It is a home for females, of whom there are nearly 100. Extensive additions have recently been made, giving hospital and other accommodations.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR FEEBLE-MINDED CHILDREN.

Vineland.

This public institution is an outgrowth of a private one, which Prof. S. Olin Garrison established in Millville, Cumberland county, on September 1st, 1887. It was opened at Vineland, on March 1st, 1888, with an enrollment of ten inmates. Adjacent properties were soon acquired and a handsome building, costing about $18,000, was erected in 1890-91. There are nine cottages, besides a hospital, large barn, shops and manual training-rooms, located on a farm of 120 acres. The school has a fine assembly hall, seating over 600, and also containing seven (7) school-rooms, an armory, drill-room and a gymnasium.

The plan and scope of training and education by the school, require fourteen teachers in English, Kindergarten, Military, Music, Physical Culture and Manual Trades departments, thereby indicating the special and comprehensive fields of instruction. There is also a custodial department for the idiotic, and a hospital department for epileptics.

The property is worth over $150,000, real and personal, with a debt of only $8,000. Besides very good property acquisitions at low cost, at least $50,000 have been donated to the school since its organization, to aid in the current expenses, in improvements and new buildings.

On May 27th, 1903, there were 279 boys and girls in the institution.

STATE VILLAGE FOR EPILEPTICS.

Skillman, Somerset County.

This village is located in Montgomery township, Somerset county, about one mile from Skillman Station, on the line of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad. The location is one of the most beautiful and healthful in the State, and is admirably adapted for the purposes of this kind of an institution. The managers have secured three adjoining farms containing in all about five hundred acres.

The three farm houses are now being used, one for the Administration building, one for male and one for female patients.

In 1884 Dr. John W. Ward, Superintendent of the State Hospital at Trenton, realizing the necessity of separating the epileptics from the insane, went before a legislative committee and strongly urged the appropriation of $50,000 to erect a building upon the grounds of that institution for the proper care of the epileptics. The late Prof. S. Olin Garrison, Principal of the New Jersey Training School for Feeble-Minded Children, at Vineland, early recognized the necessity of separate provision for the epileptics in that institution, and was indefatigable in his efforts to establish the present village.

For a number of years the subject was agitated, and in 1895, in accordance with a resolution passed by the Legislature, the Governor appointed a commission to investigate the number and condition of epileptics in the State. The report of the commission was presented to the Legislature of 1896 and a bill was introduced for the establishment of a colony on a plan recommended by the commission. The bill failing to become a law, the New Jersey State Medical Society, by resolution at their annual meeting in 1896, endorsed the necessity of such legislation. In 1897 the President, Dr. Thomas J. Smith, of Bridgeton, most ably presented the necessity of providing for the epileptics, and urged that the State authorities be importuned most earnestly to revive the movement initiated the year before to establish an industrial epileptic colony in our State. The Society reaffirmed its position, and appointed a committee to urge the matter further.

Through the combined efforts of those interested and with the zealous co-operation of Senator Stokes, of Cumberland, who had charge of the legislation, an act was passed by the Legislature of 1898, and promptly signed by Acting Governor Voorhees, making the necessary provisions for the establishment of the institution. The sum of $15,000 was appropriated for the purchase of a site and to pay for the equipment and maintenance of the village. The "Maplewood Farm," containing about 187 acres, was purchased for $11,500, and the village was opened for the reception of male patients November 1st, of the same year.

The Legislature of 1900 appropriated $30,000 for the erection of two cottages for patients, and $16,000 for the purchase of two farms adjoining the property. As the Legislature provides the buildings, all epileptics of either sex, over five years of age, and not insane, will be admitted.

NEW JERSEY REFORMATORY.

Rahway.

The Legislature of 1895 passed an act, which was approved by Governor Werts on March 28, providing for the appointment of a commission consisting of six persons to build an intermediate prison for the criminal classes. The act authorized the commission to set apart for the use of the reformatory the property known as the Edgar farm, belonging to the State Sinking Fund, located in Union county, and also such other portion of said farm located in Middlesex county, and, if necessary, to purchase adjoining property for the completion of the site at a cost not exceeding $10,000. The institution when completed shall have a capacity of not less than one thousand prisoners. The sum of $100,000 was appropriated to begin the work. The criminal courts of the State are empowered to sentence prisoners between the ages of sixteen and thirty years to the reformatory instead of to the State Prison. The act provided that the commission shall be constituted of a board of managers upon the completion of a part of the reformatory.

The act of 1895 was repealed in 1901, when a new law was enacted, which provided for a Board of Managers to consist of nine persons including the Governor, no more than four to be of the same political party. In substance, the new act does not differ much from the original act. The original commissioners were: Patrick Farrelly, George S. Mott, David M. Chambers, William A. Ure, John T. Daly and Thomas M. Gopsill.

The Reformatory is about one and a half miles from the city of Rahway. The cost, exclusive of the appropriation of 1901, was about $575,000. The central or guard room building and one wing are all that has been completed of the main building. The capacity of the dormitory wing is 256 rooms, and 332 inmates have been admitted to November 1, 1903. In February, 1903, the institution was, owing to lack of accommodation, practically closed against new inmates and none have been admitted since save when rooms have been vacated by releases on parole.

The industrial building and power-house are also completed, and the domestic building partially so. The inmates are detailed to different trades classes, and do all the work required for betterments and repairs; the most complete barn in that section of the State has been built by them, and the State Treasury received nearly $13,000 in cash during the past year from their labor. They enjoy daily educational advantages, and are regularly drilled in military tactics. To double the present capacity of the Reformatory it will be necessary to add one wing. Four wings in all are contemplated for its completion. The space between the central building and the domestic building has been enclosed with a temporary wooden stockade. The following Board of Commissioners has charge of the institution: The Governor, ex officio, and George A. Squire, Percy R. Pyne, Benjamin Edge, M.D., George W. Fortmeyer, Richard H. Wilson, Bruce S. Keator, M.D., William Edgar and Decatur M. Sawyer. Mr. Squire is President, Mr. Wilson, Secretary, and Joseph W. Martin, Superintendent.

PARTY PLATFORMS.

REPUBLICAN.

(Adopted at the State Convention held at Trenton, Tuesday, September 20th, 1904.)

The Republican party is just fifty years old. During the greater portion of this period it has governed the country. What a record of achievement! It has always been the party of progress and prosperity. The preservation of the Union, protection and sound money have successively been, and are its watchwords. It has met every great emergency in the right.

The administration of President Roosevelt has been American, courageous and honest. His character and purposes fill the American heart with admiration. We endorse him with enthusiasm for a further tenure of office, and adopt as our own the platform of the last Republican national convention.

We heartily endorse the administration of Governor Murphy. It has been honest, progressive and achieving.

Laws for primary reform, giving the State interest on its money deposits, creating a tenement house commission, and providing for reform in factory and workshop legislation, are among the acts which reflect credit upon the business-like management of State affairs for the last three years.

The State revenue has been carefully conserved, while at the same time the helpless and dependent population of the State have been cared for to a greater extent than ever before.

Through the persistent efforts of the present administration over three-quarters of a million dollars have been collected from the national government for interest moneys on expenditures made by the State at the time of the Civil War.

The Republican party of this State has inaugurated a policy unknown elsewhere, in using the surplus funds of the State treasury for the relief of local taxation. Under this policy $2,000,000 of the State's income is now annually distributed or secured to our various taxing districts as their dividend from a wise administration of State affairs.

The record of the party for the past nine years is an evidence of the faithfulness with which it has carried out its trust, and if continued in power it pledges itself to scrupulously guard the State's income for the benefit of all the people; to continue to use the surplus thereof for the further reduction of the local tax rate, the improvement of our school system, and for the extension of our good roads, which policy has proven such a boon to the people of the State. We pledge ourselves in these policies to so manage the finances as to prevent the imposition of a State tax, to which we are unalterably opposed.

The constitution of the State declares that property shall be assessed for taxation under general laws, by uniform rules, according to its true value. Equal taxation is not only just, but an obligation imposed upon the Legislature by the constitution.

The taxation of railroad property has assumed its present prominence largely because of the constant and increasing absorption of private property for railroad purposes, particularly at the terminals of the great trunk lines.

Railroad property is now, by legislation, sanctioned by the highest judicial authority of the State, segregated into a class for purposes of taxation. This system has existed for twenty years, and under it the State and municipalities have received large sums, and a State tax has been avoided. By means of it railroad property is divided into classes for purposes of taxation.

The franchises and the property familiarly called the "main stem" are required by the existing law to be taxed by the State Board of Assessors at a uniform rate, assessed upon their true value as a whole. Other real estate, not included in the "main stem," owned by railroads and used for railroad purposes, and known as "second class" property, is also taxed by the State Board of Assessors at a fixed rate.

A portion of the taxes derived from this class of property was formerly paid to the State for its use, but subsequently the Legislature, in the interest of certain municipalities where the diversion of these taxes into the State treasury seemed to be a hardship, modified the law by directing that this whole tax be paid to the particular municipality where the lands were situate.

We believe that the time has now come when a still further modification of the law should be made for the benefit of the municipalities, by providing that this "second class" property should be taxed at full local rates for local purposes, and we are in favor of the enactment of laws to this effect.

The question affecting the taxation of the franchises and so-called "main stem" are so intimately connected with the revenues of the State, and so far-reaching and involved, that the subject should receive the most exhaustive consideration. Under authority of the last Legislature, a commission was appointed by the Governor to investigate and report to the next Legislature upon the taxation of all classes of property, by whomsoever owned. This commission has now organized, and has commenced its deliberations by setting on foot a searching investigation into the taxation of railroad property. The possible loss of revenue to the State, the danger of a State tax, and other results affecting the State at large, which might arise from a change in the method of taxation of the franchise and "main stem," are so great that we deem it prudent and conservative to await the report of this commission before taking action thereon.

Upon the presentation of this report to the Legislature, we pledge the Republican party, its candidate for Governor, and its members of the Legislature, to a fearless and thorough consideration of this subject, to the end that if any lack of uniformity or any inequalities are shown to exist, they will be removed, so that all property, corporate or individual, except that used for religious, educational and charitable purposes, shall bear its full equal and just burden of taxation without discrimination, and we pledge to the people of the State the enactment of all just laws to that end.

DEMOCRATIC.

(Adopted at the State Convention held at Trenton, Thursday, September 15, 1904.)

The representatives of the Democratic party of New Jersey, in convention assembled, declare:

That we endorse the action of the National Democratic convention in its declaration of the principles of the Democratic party and in its nomination of Alton B. Parker and Henry G. Davis, and we invite to the support of those statesmen every voter of New Jersey who believes that our national government should be guided by the constitution and not by a desire for spectacular and sensational experiment.

We denounce the carnival of corruption that has disgraced our Legislature for years and which last winter reached the point that declared that any and all legislation was for sale. Hand in hand with corrupt legislation for the benefit of corporations and individuals, there has gone on an extravagance in expenditure of public funds, until the annual cost of our State government has reached a figure the very mention of which indicates the hold of corruption and waste upon our State treasury. The Republican platforms have charged that Democratic administrations the affairs of our State were extravagantly administered. Let us see. During the years 1891, 1892 and 1893, when the Democratic party controlled State expenditures, the disbursements from our State treasury, exclusive of payment of bonds or loans, were as follows:

In 1891.....	$1,812,696
In 1892.....	1,698,405
In 1893.....	1,857,982

A total of $5,369,083, and an annual average of $1,789,694. During the years 1901, 1902 and 1903, the disbursements from our State treasury, exclusive of payment of bonds or loans, were:

1901	$3,323,850
1902	3,774,810
1903	4,310,820

A total of $11,409,580, and an annual average of $3,803,195. The Republican press has sought to convey the impression that this increase is to be credited to the improvement of roads and the care of our public schools. Let this claim be examined. Of the expenditures for 1903, the following items are found and classified in the second annual message of Governor Murphy:

Management of the various State departments, including salaries of the State officials, the different State boards, expenses of maintain- ing the State House, printing, etc.....	$562,084 05
Cost of prisons and reform schools.....	487,293 43
Care of the insane.....	600,450 61
Care of blind, deaf, feeble-minded, etc.....	220,800 78

Total of$1,870,628 87

This total of four items does not include the cost of courts ($232,514), the cost of the military establishment ($235,921), the cost of homes for disabled soldiers ($76,918), the cost of voting machines ($47,427), the cost of the new Senate chamber ($122,541), or the cost of the Legislature ($93,561), and does not include a dollar in the public school account. Yet the four items exceed the entire disbursements from the State treasury, for every purpose, during any of the years 1891, 1892 or 1893. These figures evidently alarmed Governor Murphy, for, in the message in which he reports them to the Legislature of 1904, he says:

"Because of the falling off in the receipts from incorporation fees, some timid people have taken alarm, and they see in imagination the revenues of the State disappearing, and the boggy of the State tax already in sight. Personally, I think much greater calamities might happen to the State than to have a State tax."

The Democratic party repudiates the word and sentiment of Governor Murphy's message and demands that the affairs of our State be so economically administered that there shall not be a general State tax imposed upon the people of New Jersey. The receipts by the State, from license fees, inheritance tax and franchise tax and miscellaneous sources (outside of the real estate of railroad and canal companies), amounted in 1903 to over $3,800,000, or $2,000,000 more than the average disbursements for all purposes during the years 1891, 1892 and 1893. Nothing but criminal extravagance can give occasion for a dollar of State tax upon the counties of New Jersey.

We demand equal taxation of all property not used for religious, charitable or educational purposes. The franchises of railroad and canal companies are granted by the State, and it is fair that taxes upon these privileges should be paid into the common treasury of the State. The real estate of these corporations presents no feature that justifies a separate classification as to the amount of tax to be imposed. The railroads of New Jersey are not infant industries. They are of great value to the State, but they are also of great value to their owners. To tax the vacant city lot and the unproductive farm and exempt the property of railroad and canal companies is not only unfair, but is in direct violation of the spirit of our State constitution, which demands that property shall be taxed by uniform rules. The Republican party has broken, in this State, every pledge of equal taxation that it has made to the people. It never gets beyond the appointment of a commission to inquire. We assert that the day of inquiry is past. The State is in possession of the facts.

What inquiry is needed to demonstrate that the buildings and roadbeds and tracks in Atlantic and Burlington, in Essex and Hudson, and in every other county in the State should pay the same local tax that is imposed upon other real estate in those counties? Every factory, every farm, every home in New Jersey is taxed at full local rates. Why, then, should exemption of railroad property continue? No convincing answer will ever be heard outside of the legislative committee room, where reasons given would seem to be always marked "Not for publication." We ask the corporations to deal fairly with the State, and we also demand that the State shall deal fairly with the corporations. We demand that property shall be taxed not because it is used for railroad purposes, but because it is property and as such receives its full share of the benefits of municipal government. We promise the people of New Jersey that the Democratic party will in the first year that it is entrusted with power, enact the following propositions:

First. That the property other than franchises of every railroad and canal company in New Jersey shall be taxed, in each municipality, at the same rate that is imposed upon the property of private owners. Dollar for dollar in assessment of valuation; dollar for dollar in amount of tax to be imposed.

Second. That the franchises of railroad and canal companies shall be subject to a State tax of one-half of one per cent. for State uses.

Third. That expert knowledge being necessary to determine the values of railroad and canal properties, the assessment of values shall be made by a State board, the taxes collected by the State, and paid to the taxing districts in which the property is located.

To the enactment of laws for this system of taxation, we pledge the Democratic party of New Jersey, and declare that the nominee of this convention shall be bound, in honor, by his acceptance of the nomination, to see that our pledge is kept in letter and spirit, and we further pledge that the government of this State will, under Democratic administration, be so economically conducted that there will not be one dollar of State tax imposed upon the people of New Jersey.

BIOGRAPHIES.

GOVERNOR OF NEW JERSEY.

EDWARD CASPER STOKES.

Governor Stokes is a lineal descendant of Thomas Stokes, the first of that name to come to America, in the seventh generation. His father is Edward H. Stokes, son of William Stokes and Ann Williams. His mother was Matilda G. Kemble, who comes of an English family which settled in Burlington county in the latter part of the seventeenth century. The Governor's father and all his antecedents were Quakers, and native Jerseymen, most of them having been born in Burlington; but Miss Kemble was a Methodist. Having studied pharmacy with his brother, Isaac Stokes, his father left Medford, Burlington county, and went to Philadelphia, Pa., to follow his profession. Although Governor Stokes was born in Philadelphia, all of his ancestors on both sides were Jerseymen.

Soon after the birth of the Governor, which occurred December 22, 1860, his father moved to Frenchtown, Hunterdon county; then to Woodbury, Gloucester county, and then to Medford, Burlington county. In 1871 he settled in Millville, where the Governor grew up and laid the foundation of that political career which has brought him to his present position.

From this it is easy to see that but for the mere accident of his birth in Pennsylvania, the Governor is by ancestry, education and affiliations a thorough Jerseyman.

The Governor was educated in the public schools of Millville. He took a course preparatory for college at the Friends' School, Providence, R. I., and graduated with second honors at Brown University in 1882. On account of the ill health of the president, Mr. Stokes was given a position in the Millville National Bank, of which his father was cashier. He soon began to interest himself in the educational work of the city, and in 1889 was elected Superintendent of Public Schools. In the following year he was elected a member of the House of Assembly, and re-elected in 1891. In 1892 he was elected a member of the Senate of New Jersey, and re-elected for two additional terms. He was chosen President of the Senate in 1895. While he was a member of the House of Assembly he took an active part in opposing the race track bills and coal combine legislation, and he introduced, and pressed to its passage the bill providing for the weekly payment of wages in cash.

Mr. Stokes has always been especially interested in affairs relating to public education. He was chairman of the commission which revised and codified the present school laws. He was the originator of the principle under which nearly a million dollars of the State's funds are annually appropriated for local school purposes, and by which the State school tax has been reduced. He has been a leader in formulating and urging the passage of various bills to this end. Every increase in the State's appropriations for public schools has been earnestly advocated by him.

As a business man he has spent his life in connection with banking institutions, having been elected President of the Mechanics National Bank of Trenton in 1899. He has naturally, therefore, taken an active interest in the State's finances. He was the first President of the New Jersey Bankers' Association. He was chairman of the Legislative Committee on Appropriations in 1900, and has been especially noted for his opposition to extravagant uses of public moneys. At the close of his term as State Senator he was appointed Clerk in Chancery, and in 1902 he came within one vote of receiving the caucus nomination for United States Senator. For three years he served as Acting Chairman of the Republican State Committee.

He was elected Governor of New Jersey for a term of three years, on November 8, 1904, by a plurality of 51,644 over Charles C. Black, the Democratic candidate. This is the largest plurality ever given a Governor in New Jersey.

Stokes, Republican, 231,363; Black, Democrat, 179,719; Parker, Pro., 6,687; Kearns, Socialist, 8,858; Herrschaft, Socialist-Labor, 2,526; Honnecker, People's Democrat, 3,285. Stokes' plurality, 51,644.

UNITED STATES SENATORS.

JOHN KEAN, Elizabeth.

Senator Kean was born at Ursino, Union county, New Jersey, in the house where he now resides, on December 4th, 1852. The house is historic, being known as "Liberty Hall," and was erected by Governor Livingston in 1772. Washington held many conferences with his Generals within its walls, and Alexander Hamilton studied law there. And in the same house John Jay was married to one of the daughters of the Governor. Another home, at 3 East Fifty-sixth street, New York city, also belongs to Mr. Kean, where he spends much of his time during the winter.

When a young boy the Senator was sent to a boarding-school in Stockbridge, Mass., and was transferred from there to a private academy at Sing Sing on the Hudson, where he received a much higher education than was necessary for him to enter Yale College, which he did in 1876. He afterward took a course in the Columbia College Law School, and was admitted to the bar of New Jersey in 1877.

Mr. Kean was elected to Congress in 1882, and again in 1886. In 1892 he was defeated for Governor by his Democratic opponent, George T. Werts.

The Senator is a prominent business man, and is engaged in numerous manufacturing, mercantile, railroad and financial enterprises, which furnish employment to a large number of mechanics and artisans, especially in the city of Elizabeth, where he is so well and favorably known. He has helped materially in promoting the growth of that city, and to him, more than to any other person, is due its present prosperity. He fills many positions of honor and trust in the banking and commercial communities. He is President of the National State Bank, of Elizabeth, and a director in the Elizabeth Banking Company. He is also President of the Elizabeth Water Company and the Gas Light Company of the same city. He holds the largest interest in the Elizabeth Street Railway Company, and his latest undertaking was the construction of a trolley line from Elizabeth to Plainfield, for the franchise of which he paid a large sum of money.

The Senator has always been an active Republican, and for several years he served as the Treasurer of the State Committee of his party. He was the unanimous choice of the Republican caucus for United States Senator in January, 1899, and received the full vote of his party when he was elected to that office in a joint meeting of the Legislature, held soon afterward, his Democratic opponent being the then incumbent, James Smith. Senator Kean was elected for a term of six years, which will not expire until March 4th, 1905.

JOHN F. DRYDEN, Newark.

Senator Dryden is president of the Prudential Insurance Company of America and a leader in banking and other large enterprises, and has his home in Newark. In person he is tall, spare and well knit. In demeanor he is dignified, yet kindly and courteous. In mental ability he is equalled by few of the men who have attained, like him, great success in life, and few men are equal to the great burdens and responsibilities that Mr. Dryden has borne for years and that he seems to bear lightly.

Senator Dryden is of old New England stock. He was born on August 7, 1839, at Farmington, Me., and was educated for the legal profession. His training in law has been of great use to him in his subsequent career. He was not very strong physically and was of a retiring and studious disposition. At Yale University, where his parents sent him, he devoted himself closely to study, which resulted in the impairment of his health, and by advice of physicians he was compelled to give up his hopes of graduation and left the university. He was later restored to the full privileges of his class, however, an honor rarely bestowed by Yale, and given the degree of A. M.

The subject of life insurance early engaged Mr. Dryden's attention and he devoted his time to a study of its principles, mastering the theory of finance, the construction of tables, averages, percentages, futurities and scientific monetary economy. About 1865 he obtained a report on the subject of industrial insurance, submitted to the Massachusetts Legislature by Professor Elizur Wright, then State Insurance Commissioner. It criticised the methods of the Prudential Assurance Company (Limited) of London, England. Mr. Dryden procured all the reports of the company and analyzed them, and decided that the Insurance Commissioner was wrong. This gave him the idea of formulating an industrial insurance system for the United States. He submitted plans to some New England capitalists, but they were not received with favor.

In 1873 Mr. Dryden visited Newark and interested in the enterprise such men as Noah F. Blanchard, William H.

Murphy, father of Governor Murphy, Horace Alling, Leslie D. Ward and others. A bill was passed by the Legislature and in 1875 the Prudential Insurance Company of America was founded. From its inception Mr. Dryden was the soul and spirit of the enterprise. For several years he was secretary, and when Noah F. Blanchard, the president, retired, Mr. Dryden succeeded him.

The steady faith, the unconquerable will and indomitable energy of Mr. Dryden carried the company through several crises and overcame many formidable difficulties, until the company became firmly planted and began its great growth. From the basement of the State Bank the institution moved into the Kremlin Building, and thence to the $2,000,000 stone structure at Broad and Bank streets, built by the company, which has recently been added to by other great and ornate buildings, making the finest single group of office buildings in the world.

Mr. Dryden was one of the founders of the Fidelity Trust Company, of Newark, started sixteen years ago, which has a capital of $5,000,000. He is largely interested in the North Jersey Street Railroad Company, and is one of three owners of the Newark and South Orange line, a subsidiary company of the North Jersey system. These and other interests are, however, commonplace to him compared with his love for the Prudential, the great child of his creation, and his interest in its workings. He is in close touch with the multitude of details of the vast system. In the construction of the handsome new office buildings in which are provided accommodations for upwards of 1,300 clerks, managers and medical examiners, he gave daily audience to the architect, and worked on the plans and estimates with an interest that never lagged. His recreation is taken in a superb home at Bernardsville, N. J.

A Republican all his life, Mr. Dryden has taken an active interest in public affairs. In 1896 he was one of the New Jersey Republican electors and served again in that capacity in 1900. When the term of United States Senator Smith expired Mr. Dryden was put forward as a candidate for the seat, but he made no effort to attain it and gave no encouragement to his friends. Engrossed with business affairs, he had shown no desire for public office, though always keenly alive to party interests. In the campaign for Governor in 1901 he appeared at the great meeting in the Newark Auditorium and made a brilliant speech in favor of the election of Franklin Murphy. To the party organization he has been a generous contributor. He is one of the state committee to raise a fund for a memorial to the late President William McKinley, at Canton, Ohio, and he is a steady contributor to religious and charitable objects. On January 29, 1902, the Legislature of New Jersey elected Mr. Dryden to fill the unexpired term of Senator William J. Sewell, deceased. He was sworn into office on February 4. His term will expire on March 4, 1907.

WILLIAM H. WILEY.

(Rep., East Orange.)

Major Wiley, son of the late John Wiley, of East Orange, was born in New York city in 1842. He was graduated from the College of the City of New York in the class of '61, known as the war class. He enlisted in the army at the age of 19. He was commissioned as First Lieutenant, was promoted to a Captaincy, and was finally rewarded with the brevet rank of Major for gallant and meritorious services. He had charge of a battery on Morris Island in the bombardment of Fort Sumter and for a time was in command of Fort Wagner. After the war he entered the Troy Polytechnic Institute and was duly graduated therefrom. He has been assistant engineer of the Brooklyn Water Works and of the Croton Water Works, also of Riverside Park in Chicago. He was also resident engineer of the Reading Railroad for a time. He was engaged in making surveys in Pennsylvania for the Newhope and Philadelphia Railroad, afterward connected with the Bound Brook route. He was superintendent of a mine in the Hocking Valley, Ohio, with headquarters in Zanesville. He used to be quite active in East Orange affairs, and in 1886, 1887 and 1888 was a member of the Township Committee, serving as Chairman a part of the time. His advice and experience were most valuable in connection with the introduction of sewerage, that great improvement having been inaugurated during his membership.

In 1897 he was made President of one of the Juries at the Brussels Exposition, and although the rules of the Exposition forbid any member of a Jury to be a member of the Superior Jury, that body passed a resolution by which he was made a member of it and served during their deliberations. For his services he received a decoration from King Leopold, but has been often heard to say the Loyal Legion badge was all the decoration that any American needed in the presence of his countrymen. Governor Murphy appointed him a member of the New Jersey Commission of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

In 1904 the Major was re-elected to Congress by a plurality of 12,541 over Seymour, Democrat.

(Population, census of 1900, 209,735.)

ALLAN LANGDON McDERMOTT.
(Dem., Jersey City.)

Mr. McDermott was born in South Boston, Mass., on the 30th of March, 1854. His father was Hugh Farrer McDermott, who, to use the language of the memorial resolutions adopted by the New York Press Club, on his decease, in 1890, "in the wide scope of his literary labors, as journalist, dramatist, author and poet, made a conspicuous place and earned enduring fame for himself." His mother's maiden name was Annie J. Langdon, and she was of one of the oldest families in New England. In 1870 the subject of this sketch determined to follow journalism, and, as a preliminary step, learned to set type and run a press. A few verses published in a Boston paper, and reprinted in the New York Telegram, in 1870, show that Mr. McDermott had a very narrow escape from a literary tomb. In 1876 he entered the law school of the University of the City of New York, and was graduated the following year, delivering an essay on "The Sanction of the Law," at the commencement exercises held at the Academy of Music in June, 1877. The same year he was admitted to the bar of New Jersey, becoming a counselor in 1880. While he was a student in the office of the late Leon Abbett there was formed a friendship between preceptor and pupil which had grown with the years, and had on more than one occasion evidenced a steadfastness which is rarely found in the harsh lines of political association. In 1878 Mr. McDermott was defeated as a candidate for Assembly from the Fourth District of Hudson county, but was elected in 1879 and 1880, and in 1881 was the Democratic candidate for Speaker of that body. From 1878 to 1883 he was Corporation Attorney of Jersey City, resigning that position when appointed Judge of the Second District Court by Governor Ludlow. In 1884 Governor Abbett appointed Mr. McDermott a member of the State Board of Assessors. In that position he formulated the rules which have ever since been followed in the taxation of railroad property and corporate franchises in New Jersey. In 1886 Governor Abbett nominated him as Clerk in Chancery, and he was confirmed by the Senate. In communicating the fact to the Legislature, the late ex-United States Senator Cattell, also a member of the State Board, wrote: "The Hon. Allan L. McDermott, one of the original members of the Board, was during the last session of the Legislature appointed and confirmed as Clerk in the Court of Chancery, and on the 1st of April resigned as a member of this Board to enter upon his new position. Much of the success of the early work of this Board is due to the intelligent and faithful service of Mr. McDermott, largely supplemented by his legal knowledge, which was invaluable. The Board parted with him most regretfully, and we are free to say that in our judgment it will be difficult to find one who will in all respects fill his place." In 1884, '85 and '86 Mr. McDermott was President of the Board of Finance and Taxation of Jersey City. Upon his retirement from that position the Argus said: "The withdrawal of Allan L. McDermott from the management of our municipal finances is a public calamity. His clear head, his honesty of purpose and untiring energy have rendered him of inestimable value to our city. He has introduced and enforced rigid principles of economy in our local expenditures, and has, with the aid of his colleagues, established an admirable financial system, which has placed our credit above cavil or suspicion." He was renominated for Clerk in Chancery, in 1891, by Governor Abbett, and he was again confirmed by the Senate. In 1892 Mr. McDermott was, because of dissatisfaction with the existing local government, defeated in a canvass for the Mayoralty of Jersey City. In 1894 he was nominated by Governor Werts as a member of the commission appointed to revise the State Constitution. He was chairman of the State Democratic Committee from 1886 until 1896, and drafted every platform, with one exception, adopted by a State Democratic Convention during that time.

In 1898 he was appointed by Mayor Hoos Corporation Counsel of Jersey City. He resigned that office in 1902. In the former year he was elected to the State Senate by a plurality of 9,528. He served two years in that body and resigned the office in the fall of 1900. He was nominated for Congress to fill the unexpired term of the late William D. Daly, and he was also nominated for a full term, with small opposition in his own party. He was elected for the short term by a plurality of 3,426 and for the long term by a plurality of 3,241 over Marshall Van Winkle, the Republican candidate. He was elected to Congress in the new Tenth district in 1902 by a plurality of 8,716 over James D. Manning, who was the candidate of the Republicans and Independent Democrats, and in 1904 he was re-elected by a plurality of 5,334 over Walker, Republican.

1904—McDermott, 21,293; Walker, Rep., 15,959; Low, Pro., 139; Ufert, Soc., 1,453; Dwyer, People's Dem., 307; Gilmore, Soc.-Lab., 417.

THE NEW SENATE CHAMBER.

The new Senate Chamber was erected in 1903, and was ready for occupancy at the Legislative session of 1904. The chamber was designed, as nearly as possible, to resemble the United States Senate Chamber at Washington. It is erected on the site of the old structure, has a corridor around it, and leading from that are several reception rooms. The main floor is for the exclusive use of the Senators and officials of that branch of the Legislature. On the second floor is a gallery looking down into the chamber, a Supreme Court room and rooms for the committees and officers of the Senate. The Chamber is thirty-one feet from the wall back of the President's desk to the door leading into the main corridor, and is forty-two feet across the widest part. It is in the form of a semicircle. It is two stories high and extends from a narrow passageway between the new wing of the State House and the executive department, almost to the bank of the water power in the rear. The Chamber, including the corridors on each side, and the reception rooms, measures forty by sixty feet. The central part is about thirty feet from the floor to the dome, and it is well lighted from the ceiling and windows in the gallery. The interior is finished with decorative panels and mouldings of plaster of paris and Scagliola and imitation marble. Arnold H. Moses, of Camden, was the architect and George E. Poole, of Chatham, the supervisor of construction. The Legislature of 1902 appropriated $50,000 for the new Chamber, and the Legislature of 1903, $60,000 for the same purpose.

BLOOMFIELD H. MINCH.

(Rep., Bridgeton.)

Senator Minch was born upon a farm in Hopewell township, Cumberland county, October 10, 1864. Removing to Bridgeton, the county seat, he was graduated from the South Jersey Institute in 1883, and acquired a course of instruction in the Bryant & Stratton Business College in Philadelphia. For a number of years he was extensively engaged in the business of furnishing coal and agricultural supplies, and did a line of large contracting. Retiring from this business, he gave his entire attention to banking, and was director in several South Jersey institutions until two years since, when he was elected Vice President of the Bridgeton National Bank, and is one of the executive officers of that establishment. While always interested in politics and a prominent leader in Republican affairs of his county, Senator Minch never held any but legislative office. He was a member of the House of Assembly in 1895, '96, '97, and was prominent in the work of the Legislature. In 1897 he was chairman of the Committee on Municipal Corporations. In 1901 Mr. Minch was unanimously nominated by his party for the Senate, and was elected by a plurality of 1,977, leading his ticket in the county. During his first term in the Senate Mr. Minch was influential and had position upon important committees, last year being Chairman of the Game and Fisheries, and Borough and Township Committees, and a member of the Judiciary, and Municipal Corporation Committees. He was Chairman of the Joint Committee on Soldiers' Home, and Sanatorium for Tuberculosis Diseases, and a member of the Joint Committees on Public Grounds and Buildings, and State Hospitals.

In 1904 Senator Minch was again unanimously nominated for Senator, and was re-elected by a plurality larger than ever given a Cumberland county candidate, and by a plurality practically twice as large as he received in 1901. In his home ward in Bridgeton and in the township where he was born he received more votes than the Presidential electors.

At the State Republican Convention of 1904 Senator Minch had the distinction of nominating Edward C. Stokes for Governor, and his speech was universally commended as one of the most eloquent and peculiarly fitting of any heard in conventions in this State.

Gloucester County.

(Population, 31,905.)

THOMAS M. FERRELL.

(Dem., Glassboro.)

Senator Ferrell was born at Glassboro, where he has always resided, June 20, 1844. At a tender age he found himself one of the waiter boys of a glass factory, whose business it was to assist the workmen and do errands about the furnace fires. As he grew to manhood he became a skilled workman and educated himself in the teeth of adversity.

His popularity in Gloucester county was so great that he was trusted with several public offices. In 1872-73 he was a member of the Township Committee and was a School Trustee for five years, 1874-79. He was elected to the House of Assembly in 1879-80, in the latter year over one of the strongest Republicans in the county, Mr. Horner, by a majority of 11. In 1881 he was elected State Senator by a majority of 486 over Caleb C. Pancoast, a strong Republican and a former member of the Assembly. At that election the county gave a majority of 687 for Garfield for President of the United States. During his legislative career, Mr. Ferrell made a most creditable record, and with jealous care he, at all times, watched legislation appertaining to the working class, which enhanced his already deserved popularity. This placed him in high rank in the councils of his party, so much so that he was nominated for Congress in 1881 in the First district, which was largely Republican, and against ex-Secretary of the Navy George M. Robeson, who was known as a political giant on the other side. Mr. Ferrell made a rousing campaign, which resulted in his election by a plurality of 1,716. This was considered one of the greatest political victories ever achieved in New Jersey and Mr. Ferrell became the lion of the hour when he entered the chamber of the National House of Representatives.

In 1885 Mr. Ferrell was appointed by President Cleveland Collector of Internal Revenue for the First District of New Jersey, which office he held for four years, when he was retired owing to a change in the national administration. Soon afterward he was placed in charge of the State Sinking Fund and had supervision of that department for three years.

He had always been active in promoting the welfare of the Glassblowers' Association. Through his untiring efforts he secured the enactment of a law abolishing the use of shin plasters for the payment of wages. Retaining his popularity among his fellow-workmen, he was always looked upon as a strong candidate for public office before the people. In 1899 he was nominated as the Democratic candidate for State Senator, when he was defeated by a plurality of only 169 in a county that was considered good on ordinary occasions for 1,600 Republican majority. He was a delegate-at-large to the National Democratic Convention held at Kansas City in 1900, and in the same year he was nominated as a Presidential Elector by his party. In 1901 his friends insisted that he become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor. After an exciting campaign he was defeated in the Democratic State Convention by a small majority by his opponent, Mayor Seymour, of Newark.

In 1902 he was again nominated for the State Senate and was elected by a plurality of 120 over William K. Roberson the Republican candidate. Last year he served on the Committees on Elections, Militia, Unfinished Business, State Library, State Prison, and School for Feeble-Minded Girls and Boys.

JAMES F. MINTURN.

(Dem., Hoboken.)

Senator Minturn was born at Hoboken, N. J., July 16, 1861, and is a lawyer by profession. He was educated in the Hoboken public schools and the Martha Institute, from which he was graduated with high honors. Afterward he entered college, but was forced to retire owing to ill health, and he completed his studies under the tutelage of Prof. Louis Barton, a graduate of Rutgers College. He was graduated from Columbia College Law School, New York, with the degree of L.L. B., in 1886, and completed his law studies with John McKeon, one of the ablest lawyers of New York. Within a year after his graduation he was admitted to the bar of that State as an attorney and counsellor. He was admitted to the New Jersey bar in 1882 as an attorney, and three years later as a counselor. In 1886 he was appointed Corporation Attorney of Hoboken and has been retained in that office ever since, despite political changes in administration.

He represented Hoboken in many notable law suits carrying them through the highest courts of the State. In 1889 he represented that city in the dispute over the ownership of the river front, in which the Hoboken Land and Improvement Company and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company were parties in litigation. The case went through the State courts and was taken to the United States Supreme Court, where Mr. Minturn made a three hours' argument, and was complimented by the judges for his ability. At that time he was the youngest lawyer ever permitted to practice in that court. The case, however, was decided against the city. Mr. Minturn, at the beginning, gave his opinion to the Hoboken authorities that the city had a doubtful chance of success.

The Senator was counsel for the late Henry George in the celebrated case of the John Hutchins will, of Camden, in which considerable money was bequeathed for the circulation of George's works. After going through the Court of Chancery, it was taken to the Court of Errors and Appeals, and decided in favor of the Senator's client. Mr. Minturn at one time declined the appointment of District Court Judge of Hoboken. He was one of the organizers of the Hudson County and State Bar Associations. In 1903 he wrote an article, which appeared in the New Jersey Law Journal, discussing the proposed Constitutional Amendments, taking the ground, while not opposing them, that they were insufficient for the relief of the courts. He advocated the reform of the whole judiciary system with the election of judges, so as to bring them closer to the people. He is now engaged in writing a history of Hoboken. A Latin scholar and linguist, he is an orator and a lecturer of high rank.

He is a member of Hoboken Council, 99, Royal Arcanum; Hoboken Lodge of Elks; Hoboken Deutscher Club; Clan-Na-Gael, Ancient Order of Hibernians; Elysian Camera Club; Amphion Glee Club; Hoboken Quartet Club; Cosmoe Club of Jersey City; Sarsfield Club and Hoboken Board of Trade. For many years he was President of the Hoboken Irish Land League, and was a delegate representing the American contributors at the unveiling of the monument erected to the memory of Rev. Father John Murphy, the Irish martyr, at Wexford, Ireland. In 1884 Mr. Minturn was appointed Judge Advocate of the old Second Regiment, National Guard, and served seven years and until the regiment was amalgamated with the Fourth. He is an honorary member of the De Long Guards, of Hoboken. He has always taken an active interest in military affairs, and has won several medals at the Sea Girt ranges and qualified as an expert marksman.

The Senator was one of the organizers of the Free Public Library of Hoboken, and of the State Charities Aid Association. He also helped organize the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children and has been its counsel since its inception. This is the first time he has been a candidate for an elective office, having frequently declined such honors before. He was elected Senator by a plurality of 3,166 over George McCarthy, the Republican candidate.

During the sessions of 1896 and 1897 he was instrumental in securing the repeal of the 20 per cent. section of the School law, which was objectionable because it increased the taxes of the farmer in the poorer districts of the state. It was mainly through his indefatigable efforts that a bill was passed making operatives in shoe factories entitled to preferred claims for sixty days' wages. Mr. Scovel fathered the act compelling trolley companies to be humane to their employes and equip their cars with protective windows and vestibules. During the session of 1903 he was responsible for the passage of the automobile act, the bill licensing trained nurses, the act making it a misdemeanor for husbands to desert their wives and children, and it was through his efforts that newsboys were exempted from the operation of the child labor law, which would have prevented them from selling newspapers on the street. In 1883 he entered the compressed yeast business, which he still conducts at 70 Wickliffe street. He has lived in the Seventh ward for twenty-eight years, and his popularity is shown by the fact of his election in 1902 as Alderman in this ward, which usually gives a Democratic majority of about 700 votes. Mr. Kaiser is the second Republican Alderman ever elected in this ward, and his election was a surprise, his majority being 270 votes. He is a member of the Columbia Lodge, F. & A. M.; Teutonia Lodge, I. O. O. F.; Granite Lodge, K. of P.; Republican County Committee; Indian League; U. S. In 1898 he was elected to the Board of Education from the Third ward for the usual term of two years. This was his first essay at public office, and no better proof of Mr. Wilson's popularity can be offered than the election returns of that year. He was the only Republican elected from the ward. After serving the full term for which he was elected as School Commissioner Mr. Wilson removed to the Fourteenth ward, where his place of business is located. In looking around for available men for the Assembly nominations in 1903, Mr. Wilson was made the choice of the imaginary district composed of the Thirteenth and Fourteenth wards. That he had not lost in prestige as a School Commissioner or in a business or social way was demonstrated by his run for the Assembly, he heading the ticket with

THE JUDICIARY.

United States District Court.

WM. M. LANNING, Trenton.

Judge Lanning was born on a farm in Ewing township, Mercer county, N. J., January 1, 1849. His ancestors were among the earliest settlers in New Jersey, the family having resided within the territory now embraced in Mercer county since 1698.

He was given a liberal education, graduating from the Lawrenceville High School in 1866. For six years subsequent to his graduation he taught in the district schools of Mercer county and from 1872 to 1878 he was engaged as a teacher in the old Trenton Academy; from 1878 to 1880 he was principal of the public school at East Trenton.

It was while acting as a justice of the peace in Ewing township that he acquired a taste for the law. He was elected as justice of the peace in 1876 and studied hard to fit himself for the place. From this study he decided to make law his life's work, and during the last four years of his position as a teacher he was also engaged in the study of the law with the late George A. Anderson and General Edward L. Campbell as his preceptors. He was admitted to the bar in November, 1880.

Mr. Lanning at once opened an office in Trenton and his ability was soon recognized. In 1883 he was admitted as a counselor at law, and the following year he was made City Solicitor of Trenton. He served in that capacity until 1887, when he was made Judge of the City District Court, a position he occupied until 1891, when, with other District Court judges, he was legislated out of office.

With Judge Vroom, Judge Lanning in 1887 compiled the "Supplement to the Revision" of the General Statutes of New Jersey. In 1894 they were authorized by legislative enactment to compile and publish an up-to-date set of the General Statutes.

In 1885 Judge Lanning published a standard work entitled "Help for Township Officers," which has run into a second edition. He was a member of the Special Commission that framed the present comprehensive township laws. Judge Lanning was a member of the Constitutional Commission of 1894 and has participated in many notable events of a legal character in the state.

He is a director and counsel for the Mechanics National Bank and for several years was also counsel for the Trenton Banking Company. He served for a time as President of the Mechanics Bank, being succeeded by Edward C. Stokes (since Governor) in that position.

Judge Lanning is a member of the Board of Managers of the Trenton Savings Fund Society, of the Board of Trustees of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, of the Board of Directors of the Princeton Theological Seminary, and of the Board of Trustees of the Lawrenceville School.

He was elected to Congress in 1902 by a plurality of 2,006 over Colonel Lewis Perrine, the Democratic candidate. After the first session of the Fifty-eighth Congress he resigned, in order to qualify for the judicial office he now holds as successor to Judge Kirkpatrick, who died May 30th, 1904. He took the oath of office June 6th, 1904. His salary is $6,000 a year, and the office has a life tenure.

After occupying many positions of honor and trust in his native town, Mr. Bergen was elected to the House of Assembly in 1875 and was re-elected in 1876. Judge Vredenburg comes from a very old New Jersey family, being the second son of the late Judge Peter Vredenburg. The first generation of the family on this side of the Atlantic, as appears from ancient records, sprang from William I. Vredenburg, who came to New Netherlands from The Hague in May, 1658, in the ship Gilded Beaver.

Peter Vredenburg, father of the present Judge, was a prominent jurist in both State and nation. He served two terms as an Associate Justice of the New Jersey Supreme Court, being first appointed by Governor Price, in 1855, and again by Governor Olden in 1862. Many of his decisions are regarded as being among the ablest reported.

Judge Vredenburg was born August 19th, 1840; was graduated at Rutgers College in 1859; studied law in the office of the late Governor Joseph D. Bedle; was admitted to practice as an attorney in June, 1862, and as a counselor in June, 1865. He is one of three sons, all of whom were lawyers.

After his admission, young Vredenburg began the practice of his profession at Freehold, his native town, and has continued to carry on the law business there ever since, with the exception of about a year, 1864, when he was located at Eatontown, to continue the business of his brother, Major Peter Vredenburg, Jr., who was absent in the military service, and who was killed September 19th, 1864, at the battle of Winchester, Va., at the head of his regiment.

In 1865 Mr. Vredenburg formed a law partnership with Philip J. Ryall, which continued for about five years, until Mr. Ryall's failing health compelled his retirement from practice. In the exciting general election of 1884, Mr. Vredenburg was nominated by the Republicans of Monmouth county for State Senator, and was only defeated by the retirement of the regular Democratic candidate a few days before the election and the fusion of the Democrats and Prohibitionists, and by a very narrow majority.

In 1897 he was one of the special Commissioners to consider the question of railroad taxation, whose report became enacted into the body of the tax laws.

In November, 1897, he was appointed a Judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals by Governor Griggs, to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Judge Dayton. He was elected to the Assembly in 1898, '99 and 1900, and during his three years' service he was prominent in legislation and served on leading committees. He was elected City Counsel of Paterson in 1904 for a full term of office. He was appointed Clerk in Chancery to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Edward C. Stokes, who was elected Governor. He was nominated for a full term of office in 1905 by Governor Stokes and was confirmed by the Senate. His salary is $6,000 and his term will expire in 1910.

Superintendent of Public Instruction.CHARLES J. BAXTER, Trenton.

Mr. Baxter was born at Glenwood, Sussex county, N. J., on November 8th, 1841. He attended the district school there until he was twelve years of age, after which he went to work on his father's farm, continuing his studies by himself and with the help of an uncle who had graduated from Lafayette College and then lived on the next farm. On his eighteenth birthday he started his educational work as a teacher in the district school at Frankfort Plains, N. J. After twelve years of teaching in several district schools, Mr. Baxter was appointed Principal of the Franklin Furnace District School. He gradually improved the condition of the school until it was converted into a High School, remaining in that position for thirteen years. After leaving Franklin Furnace, about eleven years ago, he moved to Plainfield, where he became connected with the Provident Life and Trust Company, of Philadelphia.

In 1875 Mr. Baxter was nominated and renominated as County School Superintendent of Sussex county by the State Board of Education, but was rejected by the Democratic Board of Freeholders because of his party affiliations. This started the agitation which resulted in that power being taken from the Board of Freeholders and given to the Board of Education. He was appointed to his present position by Governor Griggs on March 24th, 1896, as a successor to Addison B. Poland, who had resigned. Two days later Mr. Baxter was confirmed by the Senate for a full term of three years. In 1899 he was re-appointed for another term of three years, and in 1902 for a new term of five years. His salary is $5,000 a year.

Keeper of the State Prison.

GEORGE O. OSBORNE, Trenton.

Mr. Osborne was born at Elmira, New York, June 24, 1845. His great-great grandfather on his father's side came to this country from England about 1780 and located at New Fishkill, New York, where his grandfather, Jonah Osborne, was born in 1791, who served in the war of 1812 and was wounded in the battle on Lake Ontario. At the close of the war he located near Elmira, N. Y., where Mr. Osborne's father was born in 1821.

On his mother's side he is descended from Ezra Earll and his wife, Mary Sabin, one of the oldest families in New York State. The pioneers of the Earll family came to this country from England in 1639 and located on the ground where the city of Boston is now situated. The Earll family are the present owners of Cromwell's Lake, New York, which has been in their possession since 1762.

When three years of age the subject of this sketch moved with his father, Ira Osborne, now living at Athens, Pa., to Vanettenville, Chemong county, N. Y., where he was educated. Mr. Osborne, Sr., enlisted in the Union Army when his son was about 17 years of age. After his father had gone to the war Mr. Osborne ran away from home and enlisted twice, first in the Twelfth and afterwards in the One Hundred and Forty-first New York

State Volunteers, but both times at the strong solicitation of his mother and through influence of friends, owing to his youth, he was discharged from the service and returned to his home, and then sent by his mother to a friend of the family, P. J. Powless, who had charge of the county institutions at Snake Hill, Hudson county, N. J. At this place he was employed as assistant to the superintendent from January, 1863, to November, 1865, at which date he was appointed Warden of the Hudson County Almshouse, to which position he was re-elected for ten consecutive years. Upon retiring from that office he engaged in the livery business in Jersey City, which he conducted from 1876 to 1880. Next he accepted the position of clerk at the Barge Office in New York city, which position he held until April 22, 1882, when he was elected Warden of the City Hospital of Jersey City, a position he held until 1902, when he resigned to enter upon his duties as Keeper of the New Jersey State Prison, to which office he was appointed by Governor Franklin Murphy.

Mr. Osborne was the first vice-president of the Columbia Building and Loan Association of Jersey City, and he is now serving his twelfth term as president of that corporation. For a number of years he has served as trustee of the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church of Jersey City; he is a member of the Highland Lodge of Masons, Hugh Depayne Commandery, of Jersey City; Mecca Temple of the Shrine; Union League Club of Jersey City; also the Bergen Republican Club.

He was nominated by Governor Murphy to the office of Keeper of the State Prison on March 5, 1902, to succeed Samuel S. Moore, and the nomination was confirmed by the Senate six days later. He entered upon his duties as State Prison Keeper March 18, 1902. The term is for five years and will expire March 18, 1907, and his salary is $3,500 a year.

State Prison Supervisor.

EDWARD J. ANDERSON, Somerville.

Major Anderson, who was born at Flemington, Hunterdon county, N. J., December 15th, 1830, is of pre-Revolutionary stock. His great-grandfather, on his father's side, was a native of the Colonies, and held an office in the British service prior to the Revolution, but joined the patriot cause on the breaking out of hostilities and fought through the war on the side of liberty. On his mother's side the Major's earliest ancestor in this country was Samuel Fleming, who, in 1756, founded and gave his name to Flemington, the county seat of Hunterdon county, and whose daughter Esther married Colonel Thomas Lowrey, who commanded a regiment of the New Jersey contingent troops during the Revolutionary war, subsequently held many important public trusts in this State, and in 1790 was designated by the Legislature as a member of the Commission which selected the site upon which the present State Capitol stands. His son, William Lowrey, was also an officer of the New Jersey troops during the Revolutionary war, and his daughter was the grandmother of the subject of this present sketch.

After receiving a common school education, the Major engaged in mercantile pursuits in Philadelphia, Pa., until the breaking out of the Civil war, when he returned to New Jersey and was appointed principal assistant in the Adjutant-General's Department of the State, which position he held until the close of the war, when he resigned and engaged in business in New York city, retaining, however, his residence in New Jersey. In 1871 he was appointed first assistant in the office of the State Comptroller, which he held until 1880. In that year he was elected Comptroller by the Legislature, and held the office until 1891, when he was succeeded by General Heppenheimer, Democrat. He was appointed Fish Commissioner in 1878, and held that office until 1883. The Major is an active and ardent Republican. For thirteen years he was a member of the Mercer County Republican Committee, and was for twenty-two years a member of the Republican State Committee, and for several years served as Vice-Chairman of the latter body. He was nominated by Governor Werts for Prison Supervisor in 1894, to succeed James M. Seymour, a Democrat, and was confirmed by the Senate for a term of three years. In 1897 he was renominated by Governor Griggs and was confirmed for another full term. In 1900 he was again nominated by Governor Voorhees for another term and was confirmed by the Senate, and again in 1903 by Governor Murphy and was confirmed by the Senate. His term expires June 11th, 1906, and his salary is $3,000 a year.

State Librarian.

HENRY C. BUCHANAN, Trenton.

Mr. Buchanan was born in Falls township, Pa., within a few miles of Trenton, March 7th, 1851. His father was William Buchanan, who came to this country from Scotland in 1842, when a young man. The State Librarian attended the public schools in his native place until he was about eleven years of age, when he entered the Trenton Academy. When thirteen years old he became employed in the State Gazette establishment as office boy. He left this place shortly afterward and took a similar position in the job printing office of Murphy & Bechtel, where the Monitor, a daily paper owned by Joseph C. Potts, was then being printed. When the Monitor owners fitted up their own printing office young Buchanan went with them and remained until the Monitor was bought by the then owners of the Gazette. This brought him back to the Gazette office, where he remained until 1868, when he went to New York. During the next year, being anxious to see something of the country, he worked at his trade in New York, Harrisburg and Cincinnati, but in 1869 he came back to Trenton and went to work again on the Gazette. After four years there he went to Hartford, where he worked the next four years, coming back to Trenton and accepting a position as foreman and proofreader for MacCrellish & Quigley, with both of whom he had worked at the case when learning his trade as a printer. Remaining with MacCrellish & Quigley until January 1st, 1882, Mr. Buchanan next went back once more to the Gazette, then owned by Mr. Murphy alone, and remained continuously there until his appointment as State Librarian. When he went to the Gazette office in 1882 it was as proofreader, but soon afterward he was made news editor, and subsequently city editor as well.

Besides being city and news editor on the Gazette, Mr. Buchanan, for sixteen years, was the Trenton correspondent of the Paterson Press, and for five years he acted in a like capacity for the New York Sun. He was for several years also the Trenton correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer. On February 1st, 1899, he received his commission as State Librarian as successor to Morris R. Hamilton, for a term of five years, at a salary of $2,000 a year. In 1904 he was appointed for another term of five years.

Commissioner of Banking and Insurance.

DAVID O. WATKINS, Woodbury.

Mr. Watkins was born at Woodbury, N. J., June 8th. 1862. He worked on a farm in his neighborhood, studied law at night time and was admitted to the bar as an attorney at the November term of the New Jersey Supreme Court, in 1893, and as a counselor at the February Term 1897. He was Mayor of Woodbury for four terms of one year each, from 1886 to 1890. He was Councilman from the Third Ward of Woodbury from 1892 to 1895, when he was re-elected and served until 1898. He was elected President of the City Council in March, 1895, again in 1896, and again in 1897. He has served for some time as Solicitor of the city of Woodbury, and counsel to the Board of Freeholders for Gloucester county. He was elected to the State Assembly in 1896 by a plurality of 1862, the largest ever given a candidate for public office in Gloucester. He was re-elected in 1897 and 1898.

Mr. Watkins served as Speaker of the House of Assembly in 1898 and 1899, when he made a record for dignity, uprightness and impartiality which has been seldom equalled in the Legislature of New Jersey. At the close of the session of 1898 he was presented on behalf of the members with a suitable testimonial in recognition of his worth, and the phrase, "As fair as Watkins" there and then originated to be handed down as an example for future occupants of the chair. And at the close of the session of 1899 he was paid a similar compliment. On both occasions the Democratic minority vied with the Republican majority in bestowing the meed of praise.

Speaker Watkins became Acting Governor of the State on October 18th, 1898. That office had been held by President of the Senate Voorhees from January 31st, that year, and until the date mentioned, when his resignation as Senator from Union county was presented and filed, thus creating a vacancy also in the higher office, which was at once filled by the Speaker of the House, in accordance with the requirements of the Constitution of the State. The vacancy in the office of Governor in the first place was caused by the resignation of John W. Griggs, the then incumbent, that he might accept the position of Attorney-General of the United States. In his new sphere of duties Mr. Watkins gave eminent satisfaction, and he served in the office until January 16th, 1899, when Foster M. Voorhees was sworn in as Governor for a term of three years.

Mr. Watkins was appointed United States Attorney for the District of New Jersey in February, 1900, for a full term of four years, but resigned that office in March, 1903. He was nominated by Governor Murphy on March 10, 1903, to his present office and was unanimously confirmed by the Senate, two days later, for a full term of four years. He succeeded William Bettie, who held the office for eight years. His salary is $6,000 a year, and his term will expire April 2, 1907. In 1904 he was elected a member of the State Republican Committee from Gloucester county.

Chief of the Bureau of Labor and Statistics.

WINTON C. GARRISON, Newark.

Mr. Garrison is a native Jerseyman, having been born April 3, 1850, in that section of Newark known as the "Old Ninth Ward."

He was among the first pupils that attended the Chestnut Street School. After finishing his studies in that institution he took the High School course, at the conclusion of which he entered the employ of a woolen house in New York. This was in 1866, and four years later he embarked in business for himself. Mr. Garrison carried on business successfully for thirty-one years, when, having amassed a moderate competence, he retired from active participation in trade matters.

Mr. Garrison early manifested that interest in public affairs which has made him one of the best-known men in Newark, where he resides, but not until 1895, when he entered the City Council as the representative of the Eighth ward, did he hold a public office of any kind. He remained four years, or from 1895 to 1899, in the City Council, and during his last year of service was the recognized leader of his party in that body. He left the Council with the reputation of being one of the most painstaking and efficient members that had ever taken part in its deliberations.

The next position of responsibility and trust held by Mr. Garrison was membership in the Board of Street and Water Commissioners of Newark, to which office he was elected in 1900 for a term of three years. As a Commissioner Mr. Garrison is fairly entitled to a large share of the credit due the Board for many improvements, some already realized and others assured, in the lines of public service that came under its authority, chief among them being the elevation of the tracks of the Pennsylvania, Central, and D. L. & W. railroads; the settlement of the water supply contract, and the burying underground of electric light and trolley wires. While a Street and Water Commissioner Mr. Garrison was offered and urged to accept a position on the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission, but declined on the broad ground that the people had elected him to serve three years in the Street and Water Board and that a relinquishment of his office before completing that term would be a breach of the contract which he regarded as morally existing between himself and them. He therefore served out his full term as a Street and Water Commissioner, during the last year of which he enjoyed the distinction of being President of the Board.

On April 4, 1903, or immediately after the end of his service in the capacity last referred to, Mr. Garrison assumed the office of Chief of the Bureau of Statistics, having been appointed to that position by Governor Murphy to succeed William Stainsby. The office is one of responsibility and importance because of the relations which exist between it and the great industrial interests of the state. The term is five years and the salary $2,500 per annum.

Mr. Garrison is a member of Northern Lodge, No. 25, F. & A. M.; Royal Arcanum, North End Club, a governor of Northern Republican Club, and director in the Eighth Ward and the Post Office Building and Loan associations. In 1904 he was elected treasurer of the State Republican Committee.

Mr. Baird was born in Ireland, April 7th, 1839. When a lad he came to the United States, and in 1859 located in the city of Camden, which since has been his place of residence. Commencing life in this country in a very humble way, he is to-day, and has been for some years, one of the foremost business men of his section of New Jersey, being extensively engaged in the business of handling spars, timber, piling, etc., in the city of Camden as well as being largely interested in lumber operations in other parts of the country.

For the past thirty years Mr. Baird has been so closely identified with the politics of Camden city and county that the history of one would almost seem to be the history of the other. In 1874 he was elected a member of the Board of Chosen Freeholders, and was re-elected for and served four consecutive terms, during which period he was a member of some of the most important committees. In the fall of 1887 he was nominated and elected Sheriff of Camden county, at a time when, through existing conditions, nothing but the personal popularity of David Baird secured to the county a Republican Sheriff. And again he was elected to the same office in 1896, by the largest majority ever given any candidate for any office in the county. He was a delegate from New Jersey to the Republican National Convention of 1892, held at Minneapolis.

He was chosen a Presidential Elector in 1900, when he cast his vote for McKinley and Roosevelt. For a number of years he has represented Camden county on the Republican State Committee and as a member of the Executive Committee of that body.

He was appointed a member of the State Board of Assessors by Governor Werts in 1895, for a term of four years, and served as such for one year and six months, when he resigned the office to become Sheriff of Camden county. In 1901 he was again appointed a member of the same State Board, by Governor Voorhees, for a term of four years, beginning in May of that year. His term will expire in 1905.

Then he formed a co-partnership with his brother, Alan H. Strong, which has continued ever since. Mr. Strong was County Solicitor for Middlesex from May, 1895, to May, 1897. He was elected to the Senate in 1900 by a plurality of 2,072 over James H. Van Cleef, his predecessor in office. After engaged in farming and has always taken great pride in agricultural pursuits. He is thoroughly impressed with the idea that agriculture, being the foundation industry, should rank higher than any other occupation. Aside from this, he spends his leisure time with educational and other institutions, acting as president and secretary of several county and state organizations.

Mr. Budd is an earnest advocate of road improvement, believing it to be the most efficient means to make country life attractive, and thus persuade the rural and city youth to farming as a pleasurable and profitable occupation. Under his administration of the State Aid law he has been instrumental in constructing one thousand miles of permanent state and county roads, and the law has become popular over this and surrounding states.

Mr. Budd was in May, 1895, appointed by Governor Werts to his present position; in 1896 he was appointed by Governor Griggs for the full term of three years; in 1899 he was reappointed by Governor Voorhees; in 1902 he was again appointed by Governor Murphy. His term expires in 1905, and his salary is $2,500 per year.

Executive Clerk.

EDWARD D. FOX, Trenton.

Mr. Fox, better known as Eddie Fox, for the last thirty-nine years has the proud distinction of having served in the position he now holds as Executive Clerk, with fourteen consecutive Governors and four Acting Governors, beginning with Marcus L. Ward and continuing with Governors Randolph, Parker, Bedle, McClellan, Ludlow, Abbett, Green, Abbett (second term), Werts, Griggs, Voorhees, Murphy and Stokes, and with Acting Governors Voorhees, Watkins, Johnson and Wakelee.

At the outbreak of the Civil War Mr. Fox, at an early age, went forward in defense of his country, with the Fifth Regiment of New Jersey Volunteers, as a drummer boy. While at the front he made the acquaintance of Marcus L. Ward, who took a great interest in New Jersey's soldier boys and was known by them as the "soldiers' friend." He made his regular visits to the camps, no matter where they might be, and on one of these occasions he took a great liking to Fox, having had his attention drawn toward him by the officers of the regiment on account of his being small of stature and an expert drummer.

At the end of the Rebellion, on the election of Governor Ward, Mr. Fox was offered and accepted the position which he still holds. He was a great favorite with the officers of his regiment, as he has been with each and all of the Governors; so much so that at the end of the terms of six Governors they presented him with a beautiful gold watch and chain, in recognition of his long and faithful services.

Mr. Fox, by his long experience, has the routine duties of the Executive Office at his fingers' ends. His recollection of various incidents connected with the different administrations with which he has been connected are interesting and numerous enough to fill a book. Many of his valued friends are dead, among whom are nine of the Governors with whom he served. Not a State officer is living now who held position when he first assumed his duties; neither is there a Judge of the Supreme Court or of the Court of Errors alive to-day who then occupied those offices. Former Chief Justice Depue was appointed a Supreme Court Justice about six months after Mr. Fox's appointment. The Chief Justice was the last survivor of Governor Ward's appointments, with the exception of Mr. Fox.

The affable manner and the courtesy which Mr. Fox has exhibited toward all who visit the Governor's office have won for him many friends, and it is safe to say that he knows and is known by more of New Jersey's public men than any other person in the State.

State Board of Assessors.FOR THE ASSESSMENT AND TAXATION OF RAILROAD AND OTHER CORPORATE PROPERTY.

David Baird, President; Stephen J. Meeker, Theodore Strong, Eckard P. Budd; Irvine E. Maguire, Secretary; George William Barnard, Assistant Secretary.

This department of the State Government was created under an act of the Legislature entitled "An act for the taxation of railroad and canal property," approved April 10th, 1884.

The work of the Board was increased during the same year by the passage of another act, entitled "An act to provide for the imposition of State taxes upon certain corporations, and for the collection thereof," approved April 18th, 1884.

By an act of the Legislature of 1900 (taking effect January 1st, 1901), this Board is further charged with the assessment and apportionment of the municipal franchise tax to be paid by persons, copartnerships, associations or corporations using or occupying public streets, highways, roads or other public places.

The Legislature of 1904 still further added to the labors of the Board by charging it with the duty of annually assessing a State tax upon foreign corporations licensed to do business in the State of New Jersey; said tax being based upon the gross receipts of such foreign corporations for business done in New Jersey during the year ending December 31st next preceding; the assessment as levied being afterwards subject to review and adjustment to conform to the basis and rate of tax levied by other States upon New Jersey corporations similarly transacting business in such other States. (Chap. 221, P. L. 1904.)

The report of the Board for the year 1904 shows that 113 railroad and canal companies within the State are subject to taxation. These companies represent more than 2,300 miles of railroads and 173 miles of canals.

The following table is a summary of the valuation and assessment of railroad and canal property for the year 1904, subject to review by the Board, which review is now in progress:

MISCELLANEOUS CORPORATIONS.

Under the provisions of the act of April 18th, 1884, and its supplements, the Board has assessed for the year 1904 a State franchise tax against 10,013 corporations, amounting to $3,666,662.96 tax.

The following table shows the comparison with previous years of the number of corporations assessed under this act, and the amount of tax levied:

State Board of Health.

The State Board of Health was created by the Legislature in 1877, and the annual reports show the work which has been accomplished during the past twenty-five years. Professor C. F. Brackett, M.D., LL.D., is President of the Board, and Henry Mitchell, M.D., is Secretary. The Secretary of State, the Attorney-General and the State Geologist are members ex officio. The other members are Laban Dennis, M.D., Newark; Henry W. Elmer, M.D., Bridgeton; Henry B. Rue, M.D., Hoboken; William H. Murray, M.D., Plainfield; George P. Olcott, C.E., East Orange.

In addition to the duties assigned to the Board by the act under which it is constituted, it has charge of the execution of the laws for the prevention of the spread of contagious diseases of animals, for regulating the sale of petroleum, for preventing the sale of contaminated milk, for regulating maritime quarantine, for conducting the State laboratory of hygiene and for preventing the sale of diseased meat and other unwholesome foods.

Besides its special work the Board is constantly consulted by local health authorities concerning methods for restricting the spread of preventable diseases, the abatement of nuisances, the prevention of the pollution of streams, and for the improvement of sanitary administration.

As a Bureau of Vital Statistics the Board receives and records all marriages, births and deaths which occur in the State, and tabulates these records for use in proving descent; in the relations of guardians and wards; in the disabilities of minors; in the administration of estates; the settlement of insurance and pensions; the requirements of foreign countries concerning residence, marriages and legacies; for proving marriages in our own country; in voting and in the jury and militia service; in the right to admission and practice in the professions and in public office; in the enforcement of the laws relating to education and to child labor; the determination of the "age of consent," &c.

The following table shows the number of marriages, births, still-births and deaths registered each year since the establishment of the Bureau of Vital Statistics:

Road Improvement in New Jersey for the Year 1904.

The intense desire on the part of the different counties for road improvement, stimulated by the belief that the Legislature would increase the appropriation, incited our people to petition for many more miles of roads than the funds available would permit us to grant. Consequently, we were compelled to refuse our approval of many specifications for new work until that already under way was finished and paid for. When this was done, there was very little left. As a result many of the most enterprising counties show a decreased mileage, and the aggregate number of miles built is 107,717, forty-five less than that of last year.

The following is a condensed account of the progress of the work in the different counties of the State this year:

Atlantic county commenced no new work, but finished the grading of the second section of the meadow boulevard between Atlantic City and Pleasantville. Tracks for transporting gravel have been laid from the road to a fine gravel bed two miles distant. The metalling of the surface with this material will be completed early in 1905. When finished, Atlantic City, Pleasantville and the surrounding farming country will have one of the most complete and useful meadow roads in the State.

The freeholders of Bergen county are making no road improvements, either under the county or State aid law, but the townships have macadamized many miles unaided. Now, with the assistance of the State's aid, they are building many more roads connecting with those already improved, thus making several through lines to the State boundary. The year's work includes Ridgewood avenue, 1.68 miles; Teaneck road, Ridgefield avenue, Hackensack road, Mt. Vernon street, Paulison avenue, Sixth street, Central and Railroad avenue, 3.62 miles; Summit, Westwood and West Hillsdale avenues, .885 miles, and Fairview, Hillside, Washington, Lafayette and Fourth avenues, in the borough of Westwood, 3.19 miles, a total of 9,375 miles. Midland avenue is fast approaching completion, but was not finished in time to claim a portion of the State aid this year. When it is completed, 2.22 miles more will be added to the improved roads of Bergen county.

Burlington county constructed 28 miles of road last year, and this year built only 2.48 miles, as follows: Namely, second section Vincentown and Red Lion road, 1.89 miles, and the extension of the Crosswicks road into the business centre of Bordentown, a distance of .59 of a mile. On account of heavy outlays for roads during all these years of State aid, resulting in the construction of over 170 miles, the freeholders exceeded their appropriations, and, being unwilling to bond the county for road improvement, decided to wait one year or until the income from ratables caught up with the expenditures.

Camden county is now pursuing the policy of buying each year, through State aid, the toll roads within its boundaries. Last year the county acquired the Blackwood pike, 7.39 miles, and this year the Westfield and Camden turnpike, 5.98 miles. These turnpikes give easy access on macadamized roads through rich farming and trucking districts to the Camden and Philadelphia markets. The new work in Camden county this year was confined to the Clementon road, 1.40 miles long, which is not yet completed.

Cape May county confined her expenditures to the improvement of the Ocean City turnpike, 2.23 miles long, across the meadows from Ocean City to the main land. This road is of novel construction. It was built of poles, laid lengthwise and crosswise; these in turn were covered with a heavy bed of oyster shells, and the latter with gravel, the whole protected by ditches and mud banks on each side. The construction seems well calculated to resist the tides that occasionally flow over it.

Cumberland county gave the finishing touches to the Mauricetown road, 1.22 miles long, made necessary by the sinking of the embankment after completion, thus increasing the cost of the road nearly one-half. This county has many roads that the people wish to have improved, but the unforeseen cost of this first road has for a time checked their ardor.

Essex county finished the Hobart's Gap road, 3.88 miles, and Swamp road, 4.66 miles, a total of 8.54 miles.

Gloucester county, having been in past years a liberal road builder, is resting and recruiting its funds for renewed effort in the future.

Hudson county is still working with the Belleville turnpike, 2.32 miles long. The work was much delayed by the failure of the contractor, the refusal of the Erie Railroad to allow the dirt trains to cross their road at grade, and the settling of the fill. From present indications the road will be finished and ready for travel before next summer.

The commissioners of Hunterdon county, being unwilling to improve the roads petitioned for, were mandamusd by the courts, with the result that they are now preparing specifications for the improvement of the road from Lambertville to Ringoes, a distance of 6 miles.

Mercer, one of the most enthusiastic good road counties in the State, is still anxious to extend its system, and is prepared to build all that the State will approve of. This year the county finished the following roads, commenced last year: Princeton Hill, .70 miles; Scotch, 1.95 miles; Harborton, 1.70 miles, and built one new road—Mercerville and Lawrence Station—3.20 miles, making a total of 7.55 miles.

Middlesex county, besides completing the Landing Bridge and New Market road, 1.50 miles; Bridge Approach, Ridgeway avenue and Fourth street, 1.25 miles; extension of Sayreville road, 2.53 miles, and the Morristown and Lawrence Harbor road, 1.98 miles, has constructed the Jamesburg Reform School road, .96 miles; the first section of the Woodbridge and Oak Tree road, 2.30 miles, and, in connection with Somerset county, has improved the Franklin Park and inter-county roads, paying for one-half of them, or 1.90 miles, a total of 12.42 miles. In addition to the foregoing, the work on the South Amboy and Keyport road, 1 mile, is being rapidly pushed toward completion.

Monmouth county built the second section of the Manalapan and Freehold road, 3.38 miles, and the Matawan and Keyport road, 1.83 miles. In addition to these the Oceanic and Sea Bright road, 1.50 miles, is being pushed rapidly forward, while the remaining portion of Corliss avenue has a few short stretches of gravel yet to be laid.

Morris county completed the Randolph township section of the Newton turnpike, 3.04 miles, also the second section of the Lincoln Park, Montville and Boonton road, 2.94 miles, making a total of 5.98 miles.

Ocean has been the most ambitious county in the State this year, having commenced and completed the first section of the Stafford township road, 2.31 miles; Eagleswood Main Shore road, 3.05 miles; Ocean Township Shore road, 3.22 miles; Union Township Shore road, 3.25 miles, a total of 11.83 miles, while the second section of Stafford township road, 2.66 miles, will be completed in a very short time. These roads are all of a good quality of gravel and twenty-four feet wide.

Passaic county completed the Squirrel Wood's road, .60 miles; Barbour street, .44 miles, and East Thirtieth street, .50 miles, a total of 1.54 miles. East Twenty-seventh street, .44 miles, and Mountain View and Singac road, 2.47 miles, are being rapidly pushed to completion, while the Paterson and Hamburg turnpike will probably be finished next spring.

Salem county constructed the Salem and Pennsville road, 5.87 miles, and Main street and a portion of Mullica Hill turnpike, 1.61 miles, a total of 7.48 miles. This county has built a greater variety of roads than any other. The Salem and Pennsville road is of oyster shells; Main street, Woodstown, is of bithulithic or tar macadam, and a portion of Mullica Hill turnpike of gravel.

Somerset county, in connection with Middlesex, commenced the improvement of the Franklin Park road. The first section, or 2.53 miles, was completed, also the Kingston end, known as the Inter-County road, 1.27 miles. One-half of these, or 1.90 miles, is Somerset county's share of the work. In addition to these it built the Far Hills and Peapack road, 4.20 miles; Blazier's Corner and Davidson's Bridge road, 3.20 miles, and Mountain avenue extension, Bound Brook, 1.38 miles, a total of 10.68 miles.

Sussex county completed the Tuttle's Corner road, 1.69 miles. The decision of the court, in the Franklin Furnace assessment matter, left the county without funds; consequently, several roads, for which specifications were prepared, had to remain unimproved. The borough of Sussex, however, commenced the improvement of several of its streets, which form portions of the leading thoroughfares of the county.

Union, as a county, has done nothing, but the borough of Cranford improved Centennial avenue, .63 miles long.

Warren county has fully entered the lists of road builders, completing the remaining portion of the Danville road, 3.67 miles; the Stewartsville road, 2.44 miles; Morris turnpike, 2.59 miles; Roxburgh road, 3.01 miles, and the New Brunswick turnpike, 1.38 miles, a total of 13.09 miles.

SYNOPSIS OF SCHOOL LAW.

The State Board of Education consists of two members from each Congressional District. It has control of the State Normal School, the School for the Deaf, the Farnum School, and the Manual Training and Industrial School for Colored Youth. It appoints the county superintendents of schools, decides appeals from the decisions of the State Superintendent, and makes rules for the granting of teachers' certificates and for carrying into effect the school laws of the State.

The State Superintendent of Public Instruction is appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate. He decides controversies that arise under the school law; may withhold the State school moneys from any district for neglect or refusal to comply with the provisions of the school law, and has general supervision of the public schools. He is a member of all boards of examiners for teachers' certificates.

There is a superintendent of schools for each county, appointed by the State Board of Education. The County Superintendent apportions the school moneys among the districts in his county, has general supervision of the schools and, in connection with the local Board of Education, prescribes the course of study to be pursued in the district. He is the chairman of the County Board of Examiners and appoints the other members of the board.

Each municipality in the State constitutes a school district, unless by a vote of the people two or more municipalities decide to unite and form one district. There are two classes of school districts, cities forming one class and all other municipalities the other, but a district in either class may, by a vote of the people, be transferred to the other class. The members of the Board of Education in a city school district may be appointed by the Mayor or elected at the regular municipal election as determined by the legal voters, but until so determined the members shall be selected in the same manner as prior to the passage of the present law.

In order to be eligible to membership in the Board of Education, a person must have been a resident of the district for at least three years immediately preceding his election and must be able to read and write. A city school district may have a city superintendent, but until one is appointed the County Superintendent has supervision of the schools.

In each city school district there is a Board of School Estimate, consisting of the Mayor, two members of the body having the power to make appropriations for city purposes, and two members of the Board of Education. The Board of Education presents its estimate of the amount of local appropriation needed, and the Board of School Estimate certifies to the body in the city having power to make appropriations, the amount to be raised for school purposes.

In districts other than cities the Boards of Education consist of nine members each, elected by the people on the third Tuesday in March. The qualifications for membership are the same as in city school districts. The special district school tax is voted either at the annual meeting or at a special school meeting called by the Board of Education. Bonds for school houses are authorized by the legal voters. Women may vote at district meetings on all questions except the election of members of the Board of Education, which is prohibited by the Constitution.

Funds for the support of schools come from the following sources: First, from the income of the State School Fund. The principal of this fund is derived almost entirely from the sale and rental of lands under water belonging to the State. The principal cannot be used for any purpose, and the income can be used only for the support of public schools. This income amounts to $200,000 per annum. Second, from State appropriation made by the Legislature to reduce the State school tax. Third, from State school tax, an amount which when added to the State appropriation will make a sum equal to two and three-fourths mills on each dollar of the taxable property in the State. Fourth, interest of surplus revenue, and—Fifth, local school tax.

The $200,000 from the school fund is apportioned among the counties by the State Superintendent on the basis of the total days' attendance of pupils in the public schools. The State appropriation is apportioned among the counties by the State Comptroller on the basis of the ratables. Ninety per cent. of the State school tax paid by each county is returned to it, and the 10 per cent. received from all the counties forms the reserve fund, which is apportioned among the counties in the discretion of the State Board of Education.

The County Superintendent apportions to each district

$600 for the superintendent or supervising principal, if there be one; $200 for each teacher employed for the full time the school was in session; $80 for each teacher employed over four months, but less than the time the school was in session, and $80 for each evening school teacher, and divides the amount remaining, after deducting the amount apportioned on the basis of the number of teachers employed, among the districts on the basis of total number of days' attendance of pupils.

The custodian of municipal funds is the custodian of school moneys, unless the Board of Education appoints the collector as custodian. In either case, the compensation of the custodian must be fixed by the municipal authorities and paid from municipal funds. If there are two or more municipalities in the district, the Board of Education may appoint its own custodian and fix his compensation, which then is paid from school moneys.

Each collector must pay to the county collector the amount of State school tax due from his taxing district not later than December twenty-second. If the tax is not paid by that date the County Superintendent must withhold the amount of reserve fund apportioned to the district and divide it the following year among all the districts in the county. The county collector must pay the State school tax to the State Treasurer not later than January twentieth.

If a district provides a course in manual training, and such course is approved by the State Board of Education, the State will give to such district each year a sum equal to that raised in the district for manual training, provided the amount raised is not less than $250 or more than $5,000.

Every district must provide free text-books and supplies for all pupils and must also provide a flag for each school house, which flag must be displayed every day the school is in session. The selection of a text-book requires the vote of a majority of the whole number of members of the Board of Education. A Board of Education may employ medical inspectors and truant officers.

Every school which raises $20 to establish a school library may receive a like amount from the State. After the first payment, the State will give $10 each year that the school raises the same amount. Library moneys may be used for library books, reference books, apparatus, or educational works of art.

All plans for school houses must be submitted to the State Board of Education for suggestion and criticism. Every school house hereafter erected must comply with the following requirements: First, light must be admitted to the class rooms only from the left and rear. Second, the total light area must equal 20 per cent. of floor space. Third, there must be 18 square feet of floor space and not less than 200 cubic feet of air space for each pupil. Fourth, all rooms must have a proper system of ventilation which will supply 30 cubic feet of fresh air per minute for each pupil. Fifth, all ceilings must be at least 12 feet in height and all stairs must be at least 4 feet wide, with intermediate landings, enclosed in brick walls or by partitions of slow-burning construction, and without open wall holes. Sixth, a school house having eight rooms must have two flights of stairs, each four feet in width, or one flight not less than six feet in width, one having from eight to sixteen rooms, two flights of stairs not less than five feet in width, and one having sixteen or more rooms, four flights of stairs not less than four feet in width or two flights not less than six feet in width. Seventh, all ceilings must be either metal, wood or plaster on metal laths and painted white or some light tint.

A person cannot be legally employed as a teacher unless he holds a teacher's certificate in full force and effect at the time he begins teaching. Before beginning to teach he must show his certificate to the Superintendent of Schools. A Board of Education may adopt rules governing the employment of teachers. In the absence of rules, the contract must be in writing in triplicate, one copy filed with the Board of Education, one with the County Superintendent, and one with the teacher. The employment, promotion or dismissal of a teacher requires the vote of a majority of the whole number of members of the Board of Education.

The State Board of Examiners consists of the State Superintendent, the Principal of the Normal School and a person appointed by the State Board of Education. This Board issues certificates valid in all parts of this State and in any school or grade.

The County Board of Examiners consists of the County Superintendent and three teachers appointed by him. This Board issues certificates valid in the county. The third grade certificate is valid in an ungraded school or primary department; the second grade in an ungraded school or in any grade below the eighth; the first grade in any school in the county. City certificates are good only in the city. All kindergarten teachers must hold special kindergarten certificates. Special certificates may be issued for kindergarten, physical training, manual training, music, drawing, ancient or modern languages, and commercial branches. All applicants for certificates must file testimonials of good moral character, and in case of previous experience, of success as teachers.

Graduates of the Normal School receive State certificates. Graduates of normal schools in other States may have their diplomas endorsed, provided the course of study pursued is equivalent to the course in the New Jersey Normal School, and the State in which they were issued grants reciprocal privileges to graduates of the New Jersey Normal School.

All children between the ages of 5 and 20 are entitled to attend the public schools in the districts in which they reside. If a kindergarten has been established, children 4 years of age may attend. A Board of Education must provide suitable school facilities for all the children desiring to attend school. The Board of Education may provide for the education of pupils in the higher grades by payment of tuition fees to adjoining districts. If a child lives remote from any school in the district, the Board may transport such child to school or pay for its tuition in another district. A Board of Education may close a school and transport all the children to another school. When this is done the district continues to receive the $200 theretofore apportioned for the teacher employed in the school which was closed. Children who have never attended any school can be admitted to a public school only during the ten days immediately following the opening of the school in the fall and during the first five days in January and April, except by the vote of a majority of all the members of the Board of Education.

All children between the ages of 7 and 14 must attend either a public or private school every day such school is in session, unless they are taught at home or are physically or mentally unfit to attend. The parent of a child who does not attend school may be proceeded against before a magistrate as a disorderly person. If the parent is unable to control the child, such child may be proceeded against as a disorderly person.

Corporal punishment in all public and private schools is absolutely prohibited.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS

OF

GOVERNOR EDWARD C. STOKES.

Members of the Senate and General Assembly and Fellow Citizens of New Jersey:

This ceremony is a repetition of many similar scenes.

Ninety times since independence was proclaimed has the oath of Governor been taken before assembled electors of New Jersey. Blessing has followed blessing in the intervening years, a bountiful prosperity is ours to-day and the future is rich with promise. From a feeble colony we have become a powerful commonwealth and a potent influence in the destiny of the nation. Serious then the task and solemn the duties he assumes who accepts this office at the hands of the people and asks the guidance of Almighty God in the work before him.

Happily, the way is not unknown.

The Constitution of our State wisely divides the powers of government into three distinct departments: legislative, executive and judicial. It provides that no person belonging to one of these departments shall exercise powers that encroach upon another. The functions of the Executive and the Legislature are clearly defined. I believe the interest of good government demands that they should be kept clearly distinct. It is the duty of the Legislature to enact legislation. The Executive should not presume upon the Legislature in its functions, nor should the Legislature avoid its duty or shift its responsibility by assumed submission to executive will. As Governor of this State, I shall not assume the responsibility for the enactment of legislation. For that, Gentlemen of the Legislature, you must hold yourselves accountable to the people who elect you. This does not mean that we shall not co-operate. The Constitution provides that the Governor of this State may recommend to the legislative body such measures as will, in his opinion, conduce to the public welfare. I shall from time to time, as necessity arises, freely exercise that executive privilege. I shall at all times freely consult with the members of your body as to the needs of the people of the State and as to the character of the legislation which will best promote the prosperity and progress of our beloved commonwealth. In this exercise of our mutual duties honest differences of opinion will undoubtedly arise. It is well that they should. Discussion is a good thing and leads to wisdom and truth.

In the work before us let us remember that ours is a government by the people and for the people. The people have exercised their powers in selecting us as their agents; it now becomes our duty to justify their trust by administering the affairs of the State for the people and for them only. The more unanimous the choice, the greater—not our elation—but our responsibilities; the greater the trust, the greater the obligation. Let us avoid favoritism toward special interests. Let no cheap demogogy actuate our councils. Let our end be solely that of the public good.

STATE REVENUES AND BUSINESS COMPANIES.

The preservation and growth of State revenues upon sound and conservative principles is of great importance. The financial condition of New Jersey is well known. At the close of the last fiscal year the balance in the treasury amounted to $2,940,918.98. The ordinary receipts for the same year amounted to $4,302,370.61, of which nearly seventy-eight per cent., or $3,351,543.69, came from railroads and the business companies domiciled in our State. Of the entire income of the government, not a penny was contributed directly by the people, yet all of it was expended for their benefit and in their interest. The State is caring for the blind, the feeble-minded and the insane, supporting our prisons and reformatories, educating the young generations, developing a magnificent road system, maintaining the State government and courts of justice, all of which would be a burden upon the taxpayers except for our present fiscal policy. Last year, out of every $100 expended by the State, $22 was given to the taxpayers, $6.50 for education, $30 for charities and corrections, $7 for militia, $6 for public roads, $5.50 for the courts, $2.50 for the veterans and $1.20 for agriculture. To this extent did the people draw benefits from the State Treasury without contributing thereto. To have raised last year, by direct taxation, the income of the State, would have imposed upon property a tax-rate of more than four-tenths, or nearly one-half of one per cent. To have raised the amount that comes from railroads and corporations alone would have imposed upon property a tax-rate of more than three-tenths of one per cent.

For years the policy of New Jersey in this respect has met with the approval of the people and has received the endorsement of both great political parties. Shall we then continue our present fiscal system, or shall we tax the people for the support of our State government, our courts of justice, our educational and humanitarian institutions, our prisons and good roads? There is little doubt that the public prefer the present method, rather than a system that would compel them to pay the present State income from their own pockets. Why this query? If this policy is to be continued, we must preserve the present sources of revenue as well as add new ones. We cannot maintain our revenues by destroying their source. We tax the business companies that incorporate in our State. A policy of taxation is not consistent with a policy of destruction; you cannot tax what you have destroyed or what you have driven from you.

The incorporations in one State for ten months of last year show a capital of $111,255,500; in another of $251,971,620; in another $285,553,700; in New Jersey $313,569,620. Our State is, therefore, by no means attracting all of the great moneyed interests seeking articles of incorporation. In addition to this, the recommendations of the Department of Commerce and Labor are the preliminary steps toward national incorporation, when capital will seek the protection of federal law rather than deal with forty-five different States. All these influences threaten the revenue of New Jersey. As her representatives, we should take cognizance of these tendencies and devise such legislation as will protect the interests of our taxpayers. Unsound legislation, for revenue only, should never be encouraged, but honest legislation which safeguards the rights of the public, and thereby attracts capital and enterprise, and produces increased income, is New Jersey's aim.

New Jersey does not compete in any race for revenue between states where the inducement to incorporate is laxity of law.

The conservative character of her institutions, the honesty of her legislators, the unimpeachable integrity of her courts and the high standing of her bar, the fact that property and vested interests can be safely intrusted to her hands, are the inducemnts that have brought capital to this State. One of the business companies that filed its articles of incorporation here paid the State Treasury for that service alone $221,000, and has since been paying us annually $57,000. This same company could have gone to another State, secured a more liberal charter under lax laws for less expense and have done business in New Jersey by paying the small sum of $10.

Nor is it revenue alone that our State derives from these great enterprises. They bring us material prosperity and wealth. Many of them that have first filed their articles of incorporation in our State have subsequently located their factories and plants within our borders, bringing with them an army of employes who are among our most desirable and thrifty residents. One of these enterprises employs four thousand hands, another twenty-five hundred and others many thousands more.

In an age when various localities of our country are holding out inducements to secure the location of industries in their vicinity, the importance of our corporation laws in bringing manufacturing and other business enterprises to our State cannot be overlooked.

These great enterprises, as a rule, belong, not to the few wealthy capitalists, but rather to a host of stockholders who, as small investors, own the majority of the stock. One of the business companies incorporated in this State, supposedly owned by a few capitalists, has seventy thousand stockholders, and three others have more than thirty thousand each. These stockholders in many instances are men of small means and small income, and in many cases women who seek these securities as an investment. New Jersey has a greater number of investors scattered throughout the country than has any other State. More persons have intrusted their savings, in the way of investments, to the Legislature and the courts of New Jersey than to any other State in the Union. This is a vote of confidence in us by the residents of other States and imposes upon us a special responsibility. To this extent do our laws affect the welfare of a greater number than do those of any other Legislature. The interest of these persons, wards of our State by choice, should be carefully guarded.

Business methods change and the laws of government must keep pace with these changes in order to facilitate business progress and development. These great companies that are administered by the few but belong to the many, should be subject to such legal rules and regulations as shall insure the faithful administration of their affairs. The rights of the owner of a single share must be held as sacred as the rights of him who counts his shares by thousands. But the day of gigantic business companies seems to be on the wane. Companies with smaller capital are on the increase. Should not, therefore, changes be made in our laws to meet the requirements of these smaller organizations? New Jersey has never hesitated to amend her laws to meet new situations without doing violence to established rights.

The revenues of our State, her material welfare, her good name and the interest of thousands of stockholders of the business companies now chartered under her laws demand constant and careful review of her acts of incorporation. If in any respect they are weak, let us make them strong; if they are burdensome, let us lighten the load; where experience shows they are wrong, let us make them right; if abuses have crept in, let us provide a remedy. Our legislation must not be allowed to lag behind the times. Let our laws upon this subject be such models of integrity, conservatism and justice as will attract capital, with full notice that here it will not be permitted to do wrong, but shall be safe and protected so long as it does right. New Jersey's example has been followed by her sister States, and apparently the Federal Government is about to do likewise. Let us take another step in advance and lead the way along the path of enlightened public sentiment on this important subject. I recommend the appointment of a commission to this end.

TAXATION.

The question of taxation is not a new subject of discussion. It is a problem that grows with civilization and becomes more acute as the demands of civilization increase the expense of government. The State should have but one object in levying taxes; that is, to raise money to maintain and administer the government, to protect the lives, liberties and property of the people. Equality of taxation in our State is the mandate of our Constitution, and if all property was assessed for taxes by uniform rules according to its true value, all property, personal, real and corporate, would share equally in the expense of the government.

The platforms of both parties in the last campaign declared for equal taxation of all property, and for a revision of the present system of railroad taxation to correct whatever inequalities might exist. For purposes of taxation, railroad property has been classified, apart from franchises and personalty, into two classes, the main stem and the property used for railroad purposes outside of the main stem. The main stem is confined in some cases to a strip of land not exceeding sixty-six feet, and never exceeding one hundred feet, in width. This limitation was based upon the principle that this property was not subject to local tax and that it should not, therefore, be permitted to absorb to any considerable extent the real property of the municipality through which it passed. Railroad property outside of this main stem, known as second-class property, has, however, absorbed, and is still absorbing, part of the taxable realty of the several municipalities, and has long been recognized as a proper source of taxation for municipal purposes. With this principle recognized, this property should bear its equal share of municipal tax burdens.

Equal taxation involves valuation as well as rate; "useless one without the other." When the valuation of second-class railroad property has, by a proper tribunal of review, been adjusted to the standard of the value adopted by the local assessors in each taxing district, there is no reason why it and the property of individuals should be taxed for the same purposes at different rates. Let the railroad tax law be amended so that second-class property be assessed at local rates. This recommendation is made, and can be properly made, only in the interest of the taxpayer. It should be carried out with an eye single to his benefit. I suggest, therefore, that in framing the statute, at the discretion of the Legislature, it be provided that the value of this property be certified by the State Board of Assessors to the various taxing districts in which the property lies, that this be added to the municipal ratables already ascertained, and that upon this aggregate valuation the local tax rate be struck. In this way, and not otherwise, will the taxpayer receive the benefit of a reduced tax rate and find relief to this extent from the increasing burdens of his annual tax bill.

RAILROAD MAIN STEM.

The main line of a railroad depends for its value upon its continuity from terminal to terminal. Property of this kind has value as a whole. Divide it and you destroy it. In estimating the value of such property for purposes of taxation it should be valued as a whole. The separation of this property into sections or into real estate and franchises, does not conduce to the revenue of either the municipality or the State.

In any modification of the taxation of this class of railroad property, due consideration should be given to its effects upon the revenues of the State. Laws upon this subject have differed at different periods, but in all cases the income from this source has been covered into the State Treasury for State uses. How far the State can forego such revenue at the present time is a matter for legislative consideration. In recent years much of her income has been diverted to municipal uses. Some sections of our State are asking for the collateral inheritance tax; others are asking for the tax on insurance companies. The national government recommends incorporating business companies under Federal laws. These influences all tend to lessen the State's income. Under no pretext should the Legislature be induced to forego that income to such an extent that a State tax be unavoidable. To such a tax I am unalterably opposed. The people have been free from this burden for twenty-one years. Let us preserve this happy condition.

The main lines of railroads constitute a species of property particularly adapted to taxation by the State so long as the State needs the revenue. Railroads cannot move away; they are not confined to the limits of a single taxing district, but are the arteries of trade and traffic for the entire commonwealth.

Nor must it be forgotten in the modification of the present Railroad Tax law that its fundamental principles have been approved by our highest courts and that a change in those principles would open new legal questions to be afterwards determined and settled. When it is considered that the revision of the School law, in the preparation of which the best legal talent was consulted, was a subject of two adverse decisions by the highest courts, the desirability of avoiding such confusion in a modification of the Railroad Tax law is a truism that needs no defense.

Considerations of equality are fundamental and essential. Equality of taxation is favored by all, both as a matter of justice and as a constitutional requirement. Upon this subject the report of the commission to ascertain the facts will probably soon be placed before our Legislature. With these facts in possession it will be easy to determine what inequalities exist and to remedy the same with justice and fairness to all concerned. If there was one thing decided by the last election it was that this matter should be thoroughly investigated and that this important subject should not be hastily and superficially considered, but that right, fairness and justice should prevail. The people ask nothing more than this, and they will be satisfied with nothing less. As Governor Abbott said in his message, in 1887, "It is just to make the railroad corporations bear equal tax burdens with individuals, but it is also just that individuals should be prevented from disregarding the law and evading the Constitution through the illegal action of local assessors. Equal burdens and equal rights for all—corporations as well as individuals—are the principles that should control our tax legislation." -

No question is settled until it is settled right. The present tax laws of the State do not operate uniformly upon all property. The State Board of Taxation has declared time and time again that in many localities the tax laws were being deliberately violated by the assessment of property below its true value, in some cases as low as thirty-three and one-third per cent. The same authority has declared, what is a matter of common knowledge, that personal property to a very large extent escapes taxation. Under such a system the taxpayers have no protection, because there is no protection in a policy that is based upon violation of law. If all property were assessed according to the constitutional requirements, the average tax rate in this State would be less than one per cent. What is needed for the settlement of tax problems is less theory and more good, old-fashioned, ten-commandment honesty. The question of taxation cannot be settled piecemeal; it must be settled as a whole, and all kinds of property, real, personal and corporate, must pass muster before the reviewing tribunal.

EQUALIZATION COURT SUGGESTED.

Of the many abuses of our taxing system, I cite one illustration. In order to escape part of the county tax, some taxing districts have resorted to low valuations and have released from taxation almost all personal property. Under such a condition some counties are escaping their share of the tax burden as compared with others. The people of New Jersey are raising every year for school purposes, under the agency of the State, about $1,886,000. The amount that is to be raised by each county is determined by the proportion its taxable property bears to the taxable property of the State. Those counties, therefore, which reduce valuation and allow property to escape taxation altogether, do not bear their fair share of this school tax. It is not a sufficient answer to say that ninety per cent. of the sum thus raised is returned to the county that raises it, because ten per cent. of the amount is put into the common fund for distribution, at the discretion of the State Board, to such counties as need assistance in the support of their schools. Unless, therefore, the property valuations throughout the State preserve some degree of uniformity, the several counties are contributing unequally to this common fund for the support of our schools. The remedy for this and similar evils would seem to be the reorganization of the State Board of Taxation with greater power; or, better, perhaps, the creation of a State Tax Court that would sit as a Court of Appeal in these matters, with equitable powers to remedy inequality in valuation and equalize the same, not only in the case of individuals and corporations, but in cases of appeal between taxing districts, and between counties where these are contributing to a common cause.

MUNICIPAL TAXATION.

Municipal taxation is one of the most important questions of the day. Municipal expenditure is increasing, and municipal burdens likewise. The expenditures in twenty-six cities in this State have increased in ten years from $12,717,202 to $22,314,161, or seventy-five and four-tenths per cent., while the valuations have increased from $400,883,066 to $564,386,880, or only forty per cent. There are sixty-two taxing districts in the State where the tax rate is between two and a half and three per cent., fifteen where the rate exceeds three per cent., and six where the rate ranges from three and six-tenths to five and seven-tenths per cent. With government bonds netting less than two per cent., municipal bonds less than three and a half per cent., high-grade railroad bonds less than four per cent., and other property netting correspondingly low returns, such tax rates as I have cited exceed in some cases the earning capacity of the property against which they are levied. This is not taxation, but confiscation. Confronted with such rates as these, and harrassed every year by the fear of increased burdens, taxpayers, in self-defense, are concealing their property or placing it in non-taxable forms. This adds an ever-increasing burden upon real estate which cannot escape, and is one of the causes of its depreciation in value.

There have been notable instances where cities have met this problem and solved it in a practical, if not a permanent manner. This has been by a fair valuation of property according to the constitutional mandate and a corresponding reduction in rate. For instance, the city of New York in 1902 assessed its ratables at true value and reduced the tax rate from 3.27 to 1.41. The city of Philadelphia reduced the rate from 1.85 to 1.50. Perth Amboy, in this State, went through a similar experience, reducing its rate from 2.37 to 1.77. Atlantic City did likewise, and reduced the rate from 3.35 to 1.47. The success of these movements has proven their wisdom. Property which, from a sense of protection, conceals itself from an exorbitant tax rate, is willing to come out of hiding and subject itself to a reasonable and fair rate. The result is that more property is discovered and added to the ratables. The revenue under a small rate is really greater than the revenue under a rate that induces property to concealment, while the individual's contribution is not larger than before.

The danger to the taxpayer in this remedy lies in the fact that he has no assurance that the low rate will be permanent, that it will not be raised on the basis of increased valuation. Here the State must come to the rescue. If a maximum rate for every taxing district in the State was fixed by legislative enactment, under this aegis of protection, property investors would seek New Jersey as a safe asylum. The Legislature of the State can very properly consider the wisdom of such legislation. The comptroller of the largest city in the country says that a rate of $1.50 a hundred is sufficient to meet the needs of any progressive municipality. If the maximum rate for every municipality in this State were fixed, at the outside, at $1.70 on the hundred, or lower, if possible, the difficulties of the burdensome tax rate and municipal expenditure would be largely solved. Every small property owner would be assured of the contribution he is to make yearly to the common good. Property would come out of hiding; the taxpayers and investors in municipal securities would all be interested in enforcing economy in municipal expenditures; the public mind on the question of individual taxation would be changed from a state in which it now winks at the dishonest evasion of taxes, to one in which it would insist upon their honest payment. The gain in public morality in this connection cannot be overestimated.

I would go even further than this. In 1898 the Legislature passed an act providing that the surplus money in the State Treasury might be appropriated for the purpose of reducing the burdens of local taxation. For the first year, or perhaps the first two years, the distribution of this sum reduced the tax rate and lightened accordingly the burden of the taxpayer. At the present time the $970,000 distributed from the State Treasury for this purpose is used by municipal authorities for increased expenditures, while the taxpayer is called upon to contribute as much, if not more, than before. I would amend this act, and would provide that this distribution be limited to those taxing districts where it was used, not as a means for increasing expenditures, but as a means for reducing the tax rate proportionately to the amount of the contribution from the State. In this way economy in State expenditures, the increase in State revenue and the growth of the State surplus could be made to lessen the taxes of the property holders of New Jersey and attract industry and property to our commonwealth.

DEPENDENTS.

The work of the State in the care of its dependents grows in magnitude as it grows in importance. It is a duty which the government cannot neglect with justice or safety. Involved in this problem are questions of health, morals and finance. Defectives are objects of pity and sympathy; they are helpless and must have care. They are also dangerous to society and their increase must be prevented, if possible.

This work entails upon the State vast expense, amounting last year to thirty per cent. of the State's disbursements. Ten years ago the expenditures for this purpose amounted to only eighteen per cent. of the total expenditures. In 1895 the expenses for this purpose were $424,377.63; last year $875,127.50, an increase of more than one hundred per cent. This does not include the growing expense of our prisons and reformatories. The State is now caring for 4,889 insane patients, 377 feeble-minded, 2,833 blind—a total of 8,099. In twenty years the number of insane has increased more than one hundred and thirty per cent., while the population of the State has increased only sixty-six per cent. Our hospital for the insane at Morris Plains has to-day a population of more than sixteen hundred, the limit of its capacity. In four years more, at the present rate of increase, it will have more than two thousand patients. The hospital at Trenton has a population of 1,249, and the limit of its capacity is 840. These conditions prevail, it must be remembered.

notwithstanding the fact that we are building county asylums for the relief of our State institutions.

The situation confronting us in connection with this problem is appalling. This work must be continued in the interest of humanity and for the safety of the State, but some system should be devised by which present results can be more economically obtained, or the burden will soon overtax the capacity of the State.

Individuals, as well as the commonwealth, have a duty in this connection. The relatives of the unfortunate members of society should, so far as their means permit, assist in their maintenance and care. The tendency of the age is to shift this burden upon the State. A signal illustration of this condition may be found in the fact that of the two thousand children brought to the attention of the State Board of Children's Guardians, nearly eight hundred were returned to the care of their parents. These otherwise would have been charges upon society. It is not unfair to assume that an equally large proportion of all the dependents now supported by the State and the counties could be cared for at the expense of their relatives, who owe a moral duty to the unfortunate members of the family that they cannot honorably shift. Certainly, the least the relatives of dependents can do is to contribute toward their support as much as it would cost to maintain them at home.

Under the present law the State cares for those unfortunates who have no established domicile. This number of exclusively State dependents is growing so rapidly, amounting now to four hundred, that it would seem as though a more careful investigation should be made to discover the actual residence of these dependents and a more stringent act passed to fix the responsibility for their care; otherwise the State will soon become a mere guardian for every irresponsible and apparently homeless dependent.

The third source of expense in this connection is the character of the State institutions built for the custody of these wards. State pride is always the cry on the part of those whose eyes delight in fine architecture and magnificent buildings. It is a kind of self-satisfying patriotism. This, however, should not be carried beyond the limit of the State's ability to pay. The best example the State can set for its citizens is simplicity and a wise economy in public expenditures. When the State has provided for the care of its unfortunates commodious, well-lighted and comfortable buildings, it has done its duty. One of our institutions has cost the State at the rate of $3,000 an inmate; another at the rate of $1,000 an inmate. When it is considered that our citizens can be housed in their own homes at an expense of not more than $500 an inmate the uselessness of such expenditures for public institutions needs only to be stated to be acknowledged. Under our present law there is no business-like system that tends to secure the best results for the least money. The public institutions of the State are worth $12,000,000. Upon them, in the last ten years, we have expended $3,528,000. These expenditures have been made piecemeal, without any reference to a complete and consistent State policy.

New Jersey has one most commendable feature in connection with her public institutions—her boards of managers, consisting of our best citizens, serving the State without pay—examples of civic patriotism worthy of all praise. The work of these noble men and women cannot be too highly commended, and the freedom of their action and judgment in the work should not, in my opinion, be hampered or curtailed. It cannot be expected, however, that they should give all their time to the interest of the commonwealth or should act as sanitary engineers and architects and day by day watch the progress of public buildings. Their uncompensated services should have assistance. A Commissioner of Charities and Corrections, having at his command a State architect and a State sanitary engineer, could pass upon all proposed new buildings or additions to existing institutions, and serve the interests of economy and the interests of our State wards as well. Of the three and a half millions of dollars expended during the last ten years for this purpose, I believe one-fourth could have been saved by proper central supervision. Any private business with assets of $12,000,000 and expenditures of $1,311,000 annually, could not be successfully carried on without some executive department. Such an official as has been suggested could visit and receive reports from State institutions, investigate commitments of State wards and see that a proper standard be maintained in all institutions that in any way receive State funds. He should have as his advisory council the heads of our various institutions. The practical knowledge of such a council would insure New Jersey a system of charities and corrections, which, like her courts, would be regarded as exemplary. Fifty thousand dollars has been spent in architects' fees alone in the last three years. The proposed department could be maintained at a less expense annually than is incurred for architects and would promote other economies as well as render important service to the unfortunate wards of the State.

FORESTRY.

Of New Jersey's resources none are more neglected and none more likely to add to her reputation than her woodlands, if properly cared for. We are just beginning to realize the importance of our forests, and the necessity for their preservation. They not only furnish timber and provide an important industry, but they beautify the country, temper the climate, hold the rainfall, fertilize the soil, furnish game preserves and conserve our water supply, an indispensable factor in our rapidly growing and congested civilization. The woodlands of our State yield an annual product amounting to $4,182,537; they cover forty-six per cent. of the upland area of New Jersey, and for the most part they occupy soil that at present is adapted neither to grazing nor to tillage. These forests grew without the aid of man, and, as with all wealth provided by nature, we are most prodigal of the gift and neglectful of the heritage. Forest fires in two years destroyed timber worth nearly a half million, and the indirect loss from this source—the impoverishment of the soil and the effect upon the water supply—is beyond calculation in dollars and cents.

The importance to human health and comfort of an abundant supply of wholesome water needs no recommendation. From all over the State we hear reports of the increasing difficulty of obtaining water of a satisfactory quality and quantity for our municipalities, while the present supply is rapidly diminishing. The springs of our State are lower than they were fifty years ago. Our wells must be driven deeper from year to year. Brooks and rivers once living and flowing, no longer exist, and streams once considerable in size, are now, in the heat of summer, mere trickling rivulets. Rivers that once floated rafts of lumber with ease, are now so reduced in volume that they are no longer navigable, even by small boats. The menace of water famines, with all their inconvenience to urban population, and doubly so to farmers and stockmen, confront future, if not present, generations. Forests are natural reservoirs in which is stored the water gathered from rain and melting snow, to be drawn upon as necessity demands. Without the woodlands the water rushes to the sea and no supply is held in reserve for the dry seasons. Every year the government is spending thousands upon thousands of dollars in deepening the channels of our streams that are again promptly filled with soil carried by the rainfall from the treeless plains along the river banks. The same money expended in developing the forests along the streams and around the sources of their supply, would check the rush of water, save the soil that is now carried and deposited in the river channels and reduce to a considerable extent the necessity for the river and harbor appropriations.

The Geological Board of our State has made investigations concerning tree culture, covering the kind of trees best adapted to our soil, so that we have ample information for an intelligent treatment for our wooded and abandoned lands. Pennsylvania and New York have already established forestry reserves, New York owning about one and a half million acres, acquired both by purchase and by forfeiture under the tax laws, and Pennsylvania an area of seven hundred thousand acres, obtained by purchase and tax sales. The famous forest of Fontainebleau, in France, is growing upon soil originally no better than the wastes of South Jersey. It yields an annual income in forest products of $70,000, while it occupies territory no more extensive than Essex county, or about one-fourth that of Cumberland county. Experiments in forestry in Bergen county, for revenue, for the last eight years, show an annual return of five per cent. Twenty-five thousand dollars worth of timber has been cut and yet the forest is worth more than when the experiments began. The state forests of Europe provide revenue ranging from seventy cents to $3.50 an acre. Alsace Lorraine derives an income of $850,000 a year from this source; the Duchy of Baden, $667,000; the Kingdom of Wurtemberg, $607,000; the Kingdom of Saxony, $1,046,000. Every one of them is smaller than the State of New Jersey. This revenue is derived, not by depleting the forests, but by scientific cutting of the mature trees to make room for their younger and better companions. We have thousands of acres of land in this State, part of it mere brushland, part of it abandoned and waste, all of it unsightly, and all capable of growing trees that would beautify the landscape, afford attractive driveways, furnish places of recreation for the well, and health resorts for the sick, and be a source of income to our commonwealth. Much of this land can be purchased for $1 an acre, and in some cases can be obtained for taxes.

I suggest this subject for your consideration and recommend that within proper limits the State, by purchase or by condemnation, secure this waste and unprofitable land and develop it as forestry reserves. For some time, at least, the administrative work in this connection could be performed with little or no expense by the State Board of Geological Survey, and our game wardens could act as fire wardens.

AGRICULTURE.

The population of our State and the contributing population in the near vicinity, amounts to about 7,000,000. This vast market for our products makes the agricultural interests of New Jersey of special value. The wealth of our farms, $190,000,000, with an annual product of $44,000,000, is worthy of encouragement by the State. Our appropriations for agricultural purposes have been wisely increased during the last ten years, and the State can well afford to make further investments for the encouragement and development of this resource. Farming has ceased to be a mere gift of nature—it requires the aid of science and skill. Other States have given special attention to education in this direction. Short courses in agriculture in the winter months have proved eminently successful. New Jersey can well follow their example. We have facilities at the agricultural college for a school of this character, where such instruction could be given to those engaged in agricultural pursuits as would add to the wealth and productiveness of our soil. "Knowledge is power" in the fields as well as in the office.

RIPARIAN LANDS.

Most of the riparian grants of our State have been disposed of in fee simple and are no longer State assets. Riparian rights yet in our possession are worth, perhaps, $5,000,000. These rights, especially such as are located along the Hudson river, will grow in value with the growth of the country. Nature has fixed their limit. They cannot be multiplied and the business demands upon them are continually growing. If in the past the State had not parted with her rights in this respect, she would now have an immensely valuable asset and one that would be a source of perpetual revenue. If the policy of the past has been a mistaken one, let us at once correct it. The Legislature can provide that riparian lands shall no longer be disposed of in fee simple, but shall be leased on rentals which, at proper periods, shall be readjusted on a fair basis of increased value. Such readjustments could be determined, in cases of dispute, by a representative of the State and a representative of the lessee, which would insure fairness to both parties. One riparian grant made twenty years ago is now assessed at a sum five times larger than was paid for it; another made ten years ago at $50 a foot front is now valued at $1,000 a foot front, and still another, made less than five years ago, is now held at many times its cost to the grantee. There are many similar instances. I submit that it is an unwise policy for our State to part with this valuable source of income.

The preservation and development of the resources and interests of our commonwealth are the legitimate functions of government. God has favored us in the past; let us prove worthy of His mercies in the years to come. "Righteousness exalteth a nation" and patriotism rather than partisanship should mark the administration of affairs. Such a policy tends to the public good, develops a spirit of civic pride and makes every citizen of the State feel that he has a direct and personal interest in the successful administration of her affairs. Good government is not only the desire of the people, but a just obligation imposed upon their officials. It demands that useless offices be abolished; that State boards, unnecessarily large, be reduced; that public officials render full service for the compensation they receive; that the system of abolishing fees in public office, so auspiciously begun, be extended as far as possible throughout the State, and that a spirit of wise economy pervade our councils. The cry that the State is rich, even if true, does not justify the unwise or needless expenditure of a single dollar. The surplus in the treasury is not dangerous, nor, indeed, has it yet exceeded the proportions of a safe and necessary working balance; but whatever its amount, it belongs to the people and should be prudently employed. The State of New Jersey will not be rich until it has sufficient money to provide school accommodations for every child in the State, to care properly for every State dependent, to complete the system of good roads, to pay necessary expenses of government and to relieve the people from the burdens of excessive taxation. To these ends and to the good of the people of this commonwealth I pledge my best energy and service.

Centuries ago, when Rome was at the height of her glory, embassies from all her provinces presented themselves before the Emperor to pledge their loyalty and allegiance. Gifts of various kinds they brought him. Costly ornaments wrought from the ores of the richest mines, products of the fields and forests and rare devices of industry and skill. The Emperor thanked the embassies and expressed his gratification at the evidence their gifts afforded of the vast resources of their mighty empire. "But," he added, "I would that instead of these offerings you could have brought the hearts of your people, that with them we might build a nation bound together by the ties of love." Imperial rule is passing away. In our land no divine right marks the insignia of office; no hereditary line claims preferment; no regal hand guides the destinies of State. The people themselves choose their officials as agents, to execute their will. But their obligations end not with the choice. Every citizen has his just responsibility in the work of good government and the faithful execution of the law. No administration can succeed without popular sympathy and support, and so, in the years to come, as I tread the winepress of duty, I shall want and need as comfort and solace and cheer, the loyal, loving hearts of the people of this commonwealth.

THIRD ANNUAL MESSAGE OF GOVERNOR FRANKLIN MURPHY.

In his third annual message to the Legislature Governor Murphy briefly discusses the condition of the State's finances, alludes to the question of railroad taxation, and says that "the first duty of the Legislature is to protect the income of the State;" that in his opinion "nothing should be done which will decrease the revenue now received by the State from this source, or divert any of that revenue to the local municipalities."

In reviewing conditions at the State prison and the Rahway Reformatory, Governor Murphy arrives at the conclusion that the proper method of relieving the overcrowded condition of the prison is not by enlarging it, but by adding one or two wings to the reformatory and then transferring to the latter institution a sufficient number of first offenders under the age of thirty years who are now confined at Trenton.

With regard to the enlargement of existing State institutions he holds that it is not extravagance for the State to properly care for those in charitable and reformatory institutions, and says that "the care of the poor, the helpless and the mentally afflicted is a duty we cannot avoid and should not attempt to shirk, and I hope the day will never come when the Legislature of this State or the people of this State, will hesitate to take care of the claims of its poor and its helpless. The cost is not to be considered; the duty must be done, whatever the cost. The duty of the Legislature and the duty of the Governor is not to see that these institutions are not enlarged in order to meet the necessities of the rapidly-growing population. That question, I hope, is settled. Their duty is to see that the affairs of these institutions are honestly and economically administered, that there shall be no extravagance, that two dollars shall not be spent where one dollar is sufficient, and that every dollar expended by the State shall yield the largest possible dividend in results."

The Governor commends the department of labor for enforcing the child labor law, calls attention to the good accomplished by the Tenement-house Commission, urges the extension of the purchase of voting machines until every polling district in the State is provided with the device, declares in favor of a sunset election law, and then vigorously proposes the holding of a constitutional convention.

With regard to the holding of a constitutional convention he says:

"It is now more than sixty years since there has been a Constitution Convention in this State. Amendments were made by vote of the people upon recommendation of a commission in 1875, and upon legislative resolution in 1897. Attempts have been made to effect other changes from time to time, but have failed. A representative body chosen by the people, with responsibility to the people alone, has not considered the whole subject of constitutional law since 1844. In that period the population has multiplied nearly five times, the relations of the State government to the Federal government and to the citizen have changed; business conditions have been revolutionized; legal methods are no longer the same; taxation is greater and more varied in application, and the State as our fathers knew it has altered in all respects. It is my belief that the time has arrived when a representative Constitutional Convention should be summoned, to give the people the opportunity to revise their fundamental law.

"One obstacle to a convention has been the fear of smaller counties that a change might be made in senatorial representation. I do not think this would be done. Public opinion sustains the present system, and methods for protecting it are practicable, if there is doubt.

"The New Jersey constitution, as amended in 1875, limits legislation to narrow bounds. The varied needs of State and local government have led to evasions of the restrictions, and confusion has arisen in laws of great importance. Appeals to the courts upon the constitutionality of laws are incessant, when they should be rare, and then only upon broad issues. The status of laws which affect the daily business of the people is left in doubt, and the courts are burdened with the construction of the acts which would, under a simpler system, be as easily understood by the layman as the lawyer. The judicial system is acknowledged to be cumbersome and expensive, and the pressure of work causes delay and loss."

He urges that the Legislature should be given more power in the enactment of laws to meet the different needs of the municipalities and the whole system should be made more elastic. He devotes much space to necessity of a revision of the law concerning the regulation of automobiles, and says the Legislature should provide for the strict enforcement of the law which limits the speed to twenty miles an hour. He recommends that the law be so modified that no machine shall be permitted on the roads of this State unless it shall be geared so as to make a speed higher than twenty miles an hour impossible, and that the present license of one dollar to operate an automobile be increased to five dollars a year, and that the proceeds, about $30,000 per annum, be expended on the improvement of the roads of the State.

Secretary to the Governor.

Edward W. Gray, Secretary to Governor Stokes, was born in Jersey City, N. J., August 18, 1870. He is a newspaperman of wide experience. After serving as a reporter on New York papers, he took a position on the Newark Daily Advertiser, where he remained six years. He served as manager of the literary bureau of the Republican State Committee in the last campaign. He is a member of the Board of Tenement House Supervision of the State.

Obituary.

Assemblyman-elect Jackson R. Decker, of Sussex county, died on January 8, 1905.

Henry I. Budd, State Road Commissioner, died on January 14, 1905.

Those deaths occurred when it was too late to remove the biographical sketches of the deceased from the Manual.

On January 17 the House of Assembly issued writs of election for the filling of the vacancy caused by the death of George H. Embree, in Union county, and also for the filling of the vacancy caused by the death of Jackson R. Decker, in Sussex county, each election to be held on February 7, 1905.

The Legislature passed an act the second week of the session modifying the general primary election law so as to enable the organization of each political party to nominate a candidate, either for the Senate or the Assembly, when a vacancy is caused by death, resignation or otherwise.
